Kuhn's 'Golden Angel' Tells of Reno Trip

TELLS JURORS BUND LEADER URGED DIVORCE

Blond Mrs. Camp Testifies About Shipboard Romance While Europe-Bound.

KUHN GLARES ANGRILY

Snubs Woman Who Identifies Ring as One Bundster Gave Her Year Ago.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Both sides rested today in the Fritz Kuhn grand larceny trial.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—Fritz Kuhn's "golden angel," blond Florence Camp, testified at his grand larceny trial today that she went to Reno in 1938 because the German-American bund leader asked her 'to start divorce proceedings."

Mrs. Camp, on whom the state charges Kuhn spent money belonging to the bund, was called as the first rebuttal witness after the defense had rested.

Mrs. Camp identified the defendant who a moment before had snubbed her in the corridor and who glared angrily at her as she testified.

She said she met Kuhn on the S. S. Westernland en route to Europe in February, 1938, and that he proposed marriage in a shipboard letter during the crossing. She identified the radio telegraph blank on which the proposal as written.

On her return, she went to Reno, Nev., after taking leave of Kuhn in New York.

'He'd Take Care of It.'

He asked her, she testified, "to go back to Los Angeles and start divorce proceedings and have my furniture shipped here and he would take care of it."

Kuhn previously had admitted paying $717 in moving expenses for Mrs. Camp but insisted she paid him back.

Mrs. Camp, formerly of Los Angeles, Cleveland and Miami Beach, corroborated evidence which the state had introduced Wednesday in the form of passionate love letters written to her by Kuhn. The 42-year-old "Bundesfuehrer," perspiring and red of face, had admitted authorship of the letters.

The witness testified that she

Streets 'Blossom Out' in Yuletide Finery Tonight

Mansfield's downtown streets will "blossom out" this evening with hundreds of twinkling red, blue, green and yellow lights, reminding shoppers that Christmas is only 25 shopping days away and that stocks of merchandise are at their best.

The lights will be turned on shortly after 5 p. m. today. Electricians worked throughout the night to hang up the big lighted stars and today there were 30 of them ready to twinkle when the switch is turned.

Today also was the official opening of the Christmas shopping season and store windows and interiors were being dressed in holiday raiment.

Street decorations and lighting is the work of the Retail Merchants association.

BULLETIN

WARM SPRINGS, Ga.—(AP)—President Roosevelt disclosed today that some consideration was being given the idea of a special tax to finance expenditures for national defenses, which may be increased by $500,000,000 in the next fiscal year.

These defense expenditures, the president indicated at a press conference, will be in excess of $2,000,000,000 but probably not as high as $2,300,000,000. He differentiated, incidentally, between appropriations and expenditures for defense.

Lone Mishap Mars Holiday Traffic Here

2 Others Injured Today In County Accident as 84 Die In Nation.

Three persons were injured, none seriously, in holiday and post-holiday traffic accidents in Richland county, while the nation counted its dead at 84 as it observed the first of two Thanksgivings.

Ten persons were killed in Ohio holiday accidents, one of the state's lightest Thanksgiving tolls in recent years.

Although the county had no serious accidents, a Mansfield woman died in a Michigan crash and her body will be returned here Saturday afternoon for funeral services and burial.

The victim was Mrs. Kathleen Sohl, 20, of 290 South Adams street, who died in a Wyandotte, Mich., hospital early Thursday following a head-on collision of two cars. Her husband, Charles, was slightly injured and was reported improving today in the same hospital.

Hurt as Car Hits Tree.

J. E. LaBarre of Plymouth, injured late last night when his car skidded into a tree on Park Avenue west in front of the Ohio theater, was the only person hurt in holiday traffic in the county. He received minor injuries.

C. B. Cramer, 49, of Mt. Vernon was in Shelby Memorial hospital today with a fractured hip and head injuries, and a Shelby youth was hurt slightly as the result of a collision of two cars about 9 a. m. today at the intersection of route 96 and the Bowman street road extension east of Shelby.

The youth, Robert Bisel, 23, told state highway patrolmen that his car and one driven by Cramer collided when Cramer failed to observe a stop sign at the intersection.

Relatives of Mrs. Sohl, who was killed in the Michigan accident, said funeral services probably will be held here Monday afternoon. The body will be returned to the

RESCINDS CUT

Bethlehem Steel Restores Employe Pension Slash.

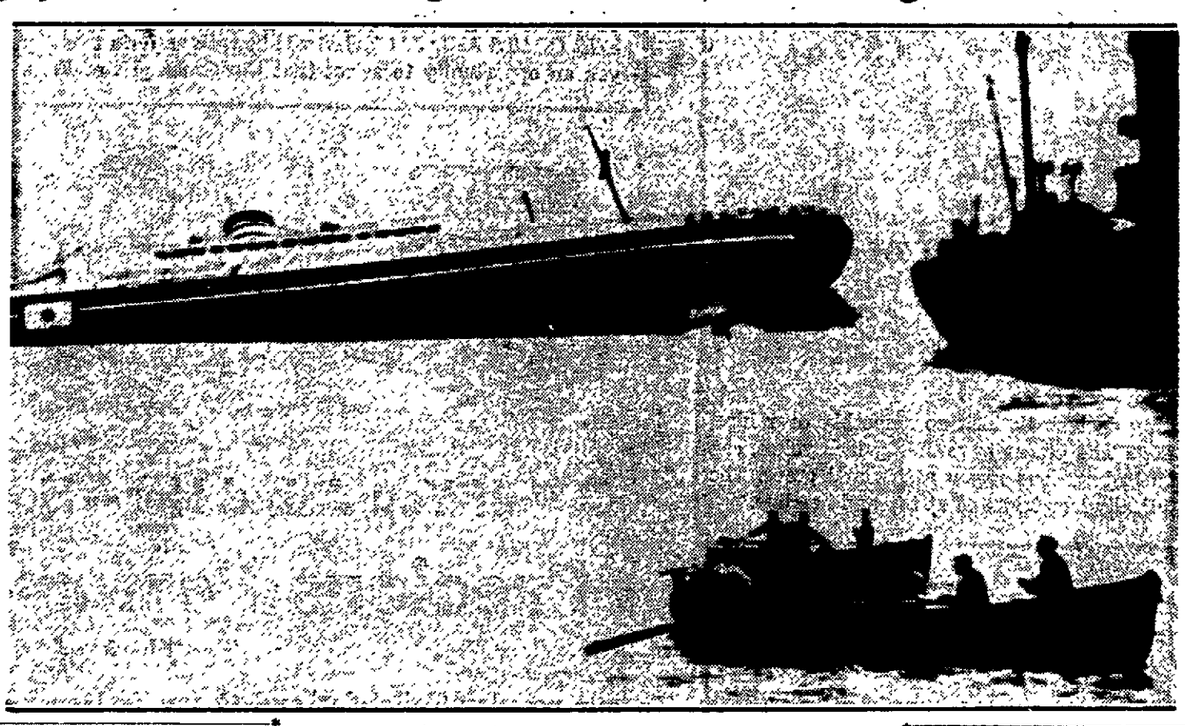
NEW YORK — (INS) — E. G. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel corporation, today announced that effective next January 1 the 15 per cent reduction in employe pension payments instituted during the depression will be restored.

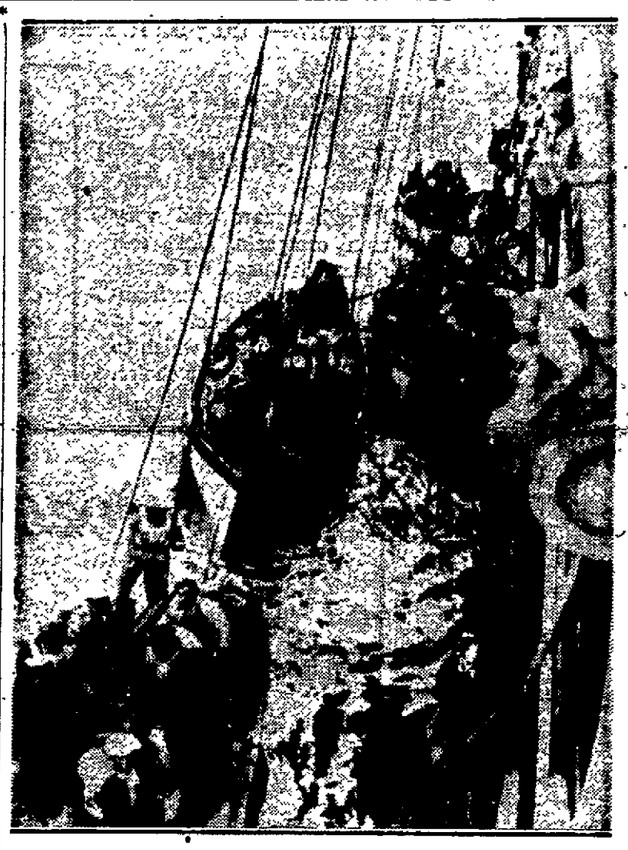
In addition, he said, further liberalization of the company's vacation plan will be given consideration.

Grace's announcement was included in a letter to all employes. He also cited that although the present steel price levels are about the same as in 1929, average hourly earnings of employes are more than thirty per cent above those of ten years ago.

"We have every reason to feel that it is a job well done," Grace said.

Japanese Liner Sinking . . . . Did It Strike Magnetized Mine?





The Terukuni Maru, Japanese passenger liner, shown at top, turns over on her side just before plunging to the bottom of the North sea within sight of the coast of England. British authorities say the liner hit one of the mines Germany has placed in the shipping lanes. Magnetized mines are being dropped from airplanes in parachutes. The parachutes disappear and the mines sink but rise and are drawn toward the ships by the magnetized metal, British say. All passengers and the crew on the Terukuni Maru were rescued. Rescue operations are shown in the bottom photo.

CITY CLEANS UP ITS RELIEF DEBT

Pays Out $7,500, All Bills on Hand, But Still Owes $8,000 on Accounts to Date.

The city today had paid off all the relief bills it had for the first time this year but still owes Mansfield merchants approximately $8,000.

That's a hard one to understand but it's true.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley said checks totaling $7,500 and representing the city's entire relief bill had been sent to merchants today.

The checks cover the city's relief expenditures for July, August and part of September.

That is all the bills the city had. However, the city still owes merchants for food purchases for the balance of September, all of October and November to date.

These bills, Kelley explained, are in the hands of the state welfare department which makes a pre-audit of all items before they can be paid. For that reason, the city, still owes an estimated $8,000 for relief.

Kelley said payment of the bills today was made from the $25,000 which was received from a delinquent tax bond issue authorized by council last month. A balance of $17,759 remains in the relief fund to cover expenses for the balance of the year.

NIPPON'S ARMY ENTERS NANNING

Capture Kwangsi's Capital, Key Supply Route From French Indo-China.

(By Associated Press)

HONGKONG—Japanese army headquarters here announced tonight that Japanese forces had entered Nanning, Kwangsi province capital, early this afternoon.

The Japanese troops moved into the city, which lies on a key supply route from reduced Indo-China, after artillery and air bombardment had reduced its defenses, the announcement said. The way was further prepared by thrusts of Japanese cavalry units which crossed the shallow Pearl river, on which Nanning lies.

The Japanese reported the outskirts of Nanning badly damaged. A few Chinese troops were still in the capital shortly before the Japanese entered.

Shortly before the Japanese announcement Chinese declared that their troops were stoutly resisting the main force of invaders about 20 miles below the city.

Nanning is approximately 80 miles north of the point on Tongking bay where Japanese forces landed under warship covering fire last week in a new South China drive aimed at cutting China's "lifeline" supply routes.

A highway through Nanning has been one important supply source for China, although a former motor and rail route through Yunnan province to both Indo-China and British Burma still remains, more than 300 miles inland over difficult terrain.

Two American and Five British missionaries are believed to have remained in Nanning.

FIND YOUNGSTER LOST IN DESERT

Posse Discovers Child Missing 10 Hours In Arizona Wastes.

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (AP) — Four-year-old Dale Smith, the second boy to be lost in the sparsely populated Arizona country this month, was found unharmed early today, 10 hours after he wandered into the desert.

He was separated from his father, Kermit C. Smith, WPA timekeeper, as he attempted to follow him on a wood-gathering expedition.

While a posse was hunting for Dale, seven-year-old Bruce Crozier, who wandered cold and hungry for seven days and six nights in a northern Arizona forest, gravely advised a group of business men not to get lost because "it isn't any fun."

The dead man was identified as Harry O'Leary, 24, of near Lima. The rookie officer, Harry Critten, said he surprised the pair after they gained entrance to the shop.

British Search For Way to Stop Huge Ship Loss

Naval Authorities Explore Methods To Combat Magnetic Mines Dropped From Planes; 25 Vessels Lost In Six Days; Two Others Damaged.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—The 8,886-ton British steamer Mangalmore was sunk by a mine off Britain's east coast today. A crew of 77 were all rescued.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—British naval experts shaped methods today to combat mines which are taking a rising toll of merchant shipping along the British east coast.

Britons, apprehensively watching the list of sunken ships grow, wondered whether the secret weapon which Germany has hinted she possesses might have entered the war at sea.

Within the past six days about 25 British and neutral vessels have been sunk, some by German submarines but most by mines.

The British press charges Germany with sowing magnetic, high explosive mines in shallow east coast shipping lanes with mine-laying airplanes and small submarines.

The admiralty made no pronouncement on reported eyewitness stories by persons who said they saw dark objects splash in the Thames estuary, near London, from German planes Wednesday night.

Naval experts, however, said the splashes came from lightweight, high explosive mines dropped on parachutes.

They said airplanes could sow the mines in shallow water where submarines could not navigate but that they considered the aerial mine-layers easier to sight and attack than those beneath the sea.

Eight In One Day.

Disclosure last night of two more sinkings raised the additions for yesterday alone to eight. One was the 315-ton British mine-sweeper Aragonite, which the admiralty said struck a mine Wednesday.

The other was the 974-ton London steamer Lowland which, it was disclosed, sank in the North sea with nine men missing and one dead. The cause of the sinking was not given.

Two vessels damaged in previous mishaps were beached today to keep them from sinking.

They were the Italian steamer Fianona, 6,660 tons, which struck a mine Tuesday night off the southeast coast and had been under tow and the Greek steamer Nicholas Piangos, 4,450 tons, which was in collision Wednesday with the Norwegian ship Brarena.

PARIS: Allies Answer Ship Losses With Blazing Air Attacks

(By International News Service)

PARIS — Blazing aerial warfare along the western front and over France appeared today to be at least one reply of the Allies to the steady sinkings of British, French and neutral vessels at sea.

Official figures revealed this morning that Great Britain and France claim to have shot down 13 German planes in air battles in the last two days.

(A Berlin communique said German fliers had shot down five French planes while losing only one of their own.)

Five of the German planes were brought down by French fliers over French territory, according to a Paris announcement, while another fell in Belgian territory.

In addition, the general headquarters of the British air force claimed that British planes shot down four German Dornier bombers and destroyed three other Nazi planes.

(The London Daily Mail claimed that still another German plane had been shot down by the British and that one French plane was lost. The paper said 150 planes had been in action along the western front.)

Altogether since the beginning of the war, French authorities claimed, the Germans have lost

BERLIN: Nazis Accuse Jailed British Spy of Pre-War Sabotage

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—Captain Richard Henry Stevens, held as a British spy chieftain on charges of direct connection with an attempt on Adolf Hitler's life, was represented officially today also as a director of British pre-war sabotage against German, Italian and Japanese shipping.

Hitler's own newspaper, the Voelkischer Beobachter, quoted Stevens, who has been identified by the Gestapo as chief of British intelligence for western Europe, as confessing he used an emigrant German, Waldemar Poetzsch, in plots to wreck ships of the three totalitarian powers.

An official statement charged that from November, 1937, to November, 1938, Poetzsch carried out acts of sabotage on "a number of ships which resulted partly in their destruction, including that of the crew.

The statement did not list the ships in question, saying merely that "German, Italian and Japanese ships" were affected.

LONDON — (AP) — Authoritative British sources said today that the two Britons seized Nov. 9 by the German Gestapo on the German-Netherlands border were endeavoring to see if a German "peace offer was bonafide."

These sources said Captain Richard Henry Stevens and Sigismund Payne Best were acting with the knowledge of the British government when they were "kidnaped."

The "peace proposals" came from "some German sources," a British spokesman said. Everything Stevens and Best learned was in the course of the endeavors to see if the peace offer was bonafide."

Ambassadors Returning.... Visit or Business?

Roosevelt Denies That Kennedy, Davies Have Been Recalled.

(By United Press)

WARM SPRINGS, Ga.—Though the American embassy in London announced that Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy had been called home for consultation, a White House statement denied it today.

The statement, authorized by President Roosevelt, specifically denied that Kennedy and the ambassadors to France, Belgium, and Poland, had been ordered home. It said that Kennedy had asked for a Christmas leave and it had been granted.

(The embassy announcement in London said Kennedy had been called for consultation by the state department. He will leave Lisbon by clipper Dec. 3 and return soon after Christmas.

(In Brussels, Ambassador Joseph E. Davies announced that he was sailing from Italy on Dec. 3 for the United States and it was understood there that he had been "recalled" for consultation).

The White House statement was issued soon after Mr. Roosevelt expressed a hope for European peace by next spring. Addressing 350 Warm Springs patients and friends at Thanksgiving dinner last night, he recalled that when he left here last spring, he had said "I'll be back in the fall if we don't have a war."

JOSEPH P. KENNEDY.

JOSEPH E. DAVIES

Envoys to Britain and Italy Preparing to Come Home Dec. 3.

"Well," he continued, "we had a war; we have a war today. Of course there were columns written about just what I meant—of course I meant just what I said—and we have a war, but I managed some how to get down here this fall and I hope that next spring there won't be any war—but, if the war should be still going on, I still hope to be able to get down here, even if it is for a very much shortened holiday, even for a few days, just to see how the Warm Springs family is getting on."

Mr. Roosevelt hoped to relax before leaving for Washington Tuesday. The Georgia congressional delegation will pay its respects Saturday and Gov. E. D. Rivers of Georgia will call Monday.

Vandenberg Urges Pay-As-You-Go Armament Program

CLAIMS SOUND ECONOMY BEST U. S. DEFENSE

Solon Says Increases in Army, Navy Power Should Come From Ear-Marked Funds.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON.— Declaring a sound economy is the best national defense, Senator Vandenberg (R) Michigan, today proposed a pay-as-you-go armament program, and a "realistic" investigation of past defense outlays.

One of the leading candidates for the Republican presidential nomination, Vandenberg emphasized that he favors an adequate national defense, but at the same time stressed the necessity of a program planned in relation to the national income.

"A sound public credit is the greatest of all national defense factors," he said, "therefore unless extraordinary national defense expenditures are on a pay-as-you-go basis you have torn down more national defense than you have built up.

"Like any other hard-pressed citizen I hate to contemplate any new taxes to be tossed to the ravenous appetite of this administration, but I firmly believe that extraordinary expenditures for the national defense should be paralleled by special ear-marked revenues to pay for them."

Vandenberg said he was in "emphatic agreement that we must make our democracy invulnerable to attack," and added that "in the last 12 years I have voted for at least $6,000,000,000 for this purpose, and I will vote for more if required."

He would base the expenditure of defense appropriations on three specific rules. They are:

"First: It must be clearly for defense and not for any such international policy purposes as were envisioned by the president's famous quarantine speech in Chicago.

"Second: We must pay as we go because debts can be as deadly as dynamite.

"Third: We must know that we are getting our money's worth and that means a realistic investigation to find out whether previous billions have brought what we were promised."

Germany Cancels Winter Olympics Because of War

BERLIN —(U.P.)— The fifth winter Olympic games, scheduled to be held in February at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, were cancelled today by the German Olympic committee.

The announcement was made by Hans Von Tschammer Und Osten, president of the German Olympics committee and Reich sport leader, who referred to a recent decision of the International Olympics committee stipulating that a belligerent country cannot be host to an Olympic games.

He declared that consequently the German Olympic committee together with the organizing committee of the winter games passed the following resolution:

"Germany, true to peaceful missions also while at war, has continued preparations for the fifth olympic winter games of 1940 at Garmisch-Partenkirchen and completed arrangements. Since German proposals for world peace have been rejected by England and France, and therefore war must continue, Germany returns the trust of holding the Olympic winter games of 1940 to the International Olympics committee."

The scarlet-clad Mansfield High school cheerleaders came through the last football game of the season covered with little less mud than the Tygers who defeated Cuyahoga Falls, 20 to 6, at Stadium field yesterday. A punt that was sent out of bounds by a Mansfield kicker in the third period headed toward the cheerleaders' bench along the sideline, and in the hurry to get out of the way they fell backward into a mud puddle, and bench breaking. Then they took another tumble into the mire a few moments later when the repair job on the bench failed to hold up.

Earl Saltzgabor and Herman (Whitey) Gimbel returned this morning from the Province of Quebec and a profitable hunting trip. They are displaying two large deer, each weighing about 200 pounds, and a 350-pound black bear. It was Gimbel's first hunting trip for big game and he brought down a big buck. Saltzgabor, who made his fourth excursion into Canadian wilds for big game, brought home the other deer and the bear. The big bruin, incidentally, will provide a feast for the 40 and 8 of the American Legion.

Probably the largest crowd to attend a Thanksgiving dinner yesterday in a Mansfield home was the group of 82 members of the Oakland Lutheran church who attended the church's annual Thanksgiving dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Fair, 309 Park avenue west. The members were served in two groups, 62 in the first and the remainder in the second, with everyone getting their share of chicken. Last year 71 members of the church ate their Thanksgiving dinner at the Fair home.

Paul Mitchell, deputy county treasurer, and George Price, his brother-in-law, tramped over the hills near Lucas most of yesterday afternoon for two rabbits—and then some one stole the rabbits. The pair of Mansfielders, weary from walking, left the rabbits along a fence near a farm house so they wouldn't have to carry the animals. When the hunters came back in the evening, the rabbits were gone, but they thought some one might have taken them to the house. No one had, so the trip was worse than a total loss.

HUNTER SHOT AS HE CLIMBS TREE

Wounded in One of 3 Holmes County Accidents When He Tries to 'Sight' Game.

MILLERSBURG — Homer Mitten, who climbed a tree to "sight" his game in the tall grass, was one of three men injured in hunting accidents in Holmes county yesterday.

C. W. Nettle, Akron, was the most seriously injured and was in Pomerene Memorial hospital today suffering with a shattered leg. Earl Leyman, Winesburg, was treated by a Millersburg physician yesterday after being shot in the face.

Mitten, whose home is two miles west of here, was injured near Killbuck as he and a companion were hunting. Mitten got into weeds and grass so tall that he couldn't see around him. He decided to climb a tree so that he could sight the rabbits from above.

It was while climbing the tree that he lost his grip on his gun and it fell to the ground, discharging. He was treated at the hospital for wounds in the face, shoulder and chest.

Nettles, who has been caretaker of the Glendale cemetery at Akron for the past 26 years, was hunting with his son and two other companions. One of the men, who was using a repeating shotgun, aimed at a rabbit at close range and shot Nettle in the left leg. The leg was shattered but it was believed at the hospital that it could be saved.

Leyman said he had been injured in a hunting accident but declined to tell how it had happened.

WPA STARTS CHECK TO LEARN 'FATE' OF 780,000 DISCHARGED

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The Works Projects Administration expects to know in January what became of its "lost legion" of 780,000 long-time relief clients who were automatically dismissed on Sept. 1.

Corrington Gill, assistant WPA commissioner, said today that a federal survey should show how many found private jobs, obtained help from relatives, went on direct local relief or returned to WPA payrolls.

The 1939 WPA act removed from the rolls persons who had received relief for 18 or more continuous months.

Gill said he did not believe that many of those discharged had been absorbed by the September upturn in private employment. The call then, he said, chiefly was for mechanics and others skilled in the steel and airplane industries, whereas 70 per cent of those dismissed from WPA were unskilled laborers.

Likewise, he added, only a comparative handful could have been re-employed by WPA. By law they had to be off the rolls 30 days before they could be recertified for relief, and then they had to wait until jobs could be found for them.

On Sept. 6, shortly after the wholesale dismissals, WPA rolls dropped to a 1939 low of 1,166,970. By Sept. 30, the number increased to 1,788,186. This gain of 621,216, Gill said, came entirely from a long waiting list of persons previously certified for relief.

Enrollment now has mounted to 1,930,000, or a total gain of 763,030 since Sept. 1. This number, minus the September replacements, leaves only 141,814 new enrollees, among whom Gill said the survey would find the first of the lost legion.

CLAIM WIFE OF LINCOLN ONCE LIVED IN OHIO

Old Newspaper Items Found by Historian Indicates She Resided in Greene County.

(By United Press)

XENIA, O.—Old newspaper accounts indicating that Mary Todd Lincoln, wife of Abraham Lincoln, once resided in Greene county, O., have been found by Harry L. Clark, Xenia historian.

Clark found such indications among the writings of George Truman in the old Spring Valley Blade.

According to the historian, Truman reported that Robert Simison in 1830 bought a farm near Bobtown on the lower Belbrook Pike from a Mr. Todd, a former Kentuckian, who had several daughters.

Files Scandal Suit.

The old newspaper account stated that Mr. Todd had filed suit in the county courts, charging scandalous talk in the neighborhood about his family. The article said he was so disgusted that he sold his farm to Simison and returned to Kentucky.

A brother of Todd, also a Kentuckian, was said to have bought a farm three miles north of Spring Valley. He also was said to have several daughters and, according to Truman's writings, one of these was Mary Todd.

This Todd family also returned to Kentucky, where Todd was said to have become a prominent judge. The father of Mary Todd Lincoln was Robert Smith Todd and she was one of six children by his first wife, Eliza Parker.

Biographers have not indicated whether Mrs. Lincoln ever resided in Greene county.

When her son, Robert Todd Lincoln, died, he turned over to the United States government more than 10,000 letters to and from his father, along with other papers. These are to be kept sealed in the library of Congress until 21 years after the donor's death, which will be in 1947.

PAINS FREE, TOO

20 Who Eat Thanksgiving Day Dinner Become Ill.

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—An investigation was ordered by City Health Commissioner Carl A. Wilzbach today after at least 20 persons who partook of a free Thanksgiving day dinner at God's Bible school became ill.

They were treated in General hospital for acute food poisoning a few hours after eating the dinner. Chemists were to analyze sample of the food.

Rev. Meredith G. Standley, head of the school, said he was "at a loss" to understand their illness. He said the school had been giving Thanksgiving dinners for 29 years and that no one had become ill before. He estimated that 23,000 were fed yesterday.

Standley said the Bible school employes began cooking the dinner Tuesday. Turkeys were placed in barrels after they were prepared, he said.

Mrs. Laura Koogle Hines, 81, widow of William Hines, died in the house in which she was born, March 6, 1858, on a farm in Mifflin township yesterday after a brief illness.

The only survivor is a sister, Mrs. Alice Conn of Akron. Mrs. Hines was a member of the St. Michael's church of Mifflin.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday, with burial in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Movie To Portray Associated Press News Gathering

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Associated Press is portrayed in its role as the world's oldest and greatest news gathering organization in the March of Time's year-end news review film released today.

The film is based on the year's major news events and devotes considerable space to scenes in the Associated Press general headquarters as background for news sequences.

Operation of the wirephoto and cable-photo equipment, with appropriate dialogue, appears most prominent in the sequences devoted to the Associated Press.

Others include closeups of General Manager Kent Cooper, executive News Editor Byron Price and Foreign News Editor John Evans.

Operation of teletype printer equipment with news wire operators and copy boys, the London cable printer and the photo library is also shown.

Other portions of the film show an exterior view of the new building, incoming cable dispatches and traffic department.

SEEKS TO BREAK TRADE SNAGS

Hopkins Launches Drive to Lift Interstate Barriers to Boom Commerce.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins initiated a government drive today to remove interstate trade barriers which, he said, constitute a serious threat to the nation's economic life.

Hopkins has formed an interdepartmental committee to study and unify government activities for combatting inroads to the free flow of commerce between the states.

In a letter inviting the appointment of representatives to the committee from the state, labor, agriculture and justice departments, the federal works agency, and the national resources committee, Hopkins said:

"For several years a number of government agencies have been giving attention to the problem of the increasing barriers to interstate trade. I have been concerned about the growth of these barriers and have had our division of industrial economics working on the problem. However, it would seem that the government might function more effectively if the various interested agencies were to join forces or at least coordinate their efforts."

4-PLY PROGRAM WINS APPROVAL AT CONVENTION

Delegates Renew Demands for Greater Share of National Income; Hit Taxes.

(By Associated Press)

PEORIA, Ill.—Continued federal aid to farmers pending the establishment of a permanent agricultural program was demanded today by the National grange at the final session of its 71st annual convention.

Delegates representing 800,000 grange members adopted a committee report which held that federal benefit payments were justifiable until agriculture and is accorded a bigger share of the national income.

The report demanded adjustments in taxation, interest charges, wage levels and transportation rates to "equalize existing inequalities" for agriculture and proposed both an emergency and a long-time farm program.

The temporary program advocated compensatory payments on domestically consumed portions of export crops to provide parity prices; similar payments for production quotas to be determined on the basis of land use, acreage, crops, and farm equipment; safeguards for tenant interests, and continued use of tariff revenue to reduce surpluses at home and abroad.

Adopts Permanent Program.

The grange, opposing any form of processing taxes, recommended that funds for the temporary program should be obtained from tariff revenues, supplemented by excise taxes on manufactured products.

For a permanent program the grange recommended:

1. Safeguarding and expansion of the American market for the American farmer, but restricting expansion of production areas.

2. A land use policy intended for soil conservation rather than for the purpose of limiting production.

3. Retention of such emergency legislation which may prove useful in future emergencies.

4. Development of cooperative marketing.

The report asserted that the farm problem is "one of unfair relations with other industry and with labor" and that during the last several years there have been "many changes in agricultural operating costs as a result of attempts to raise American living standards higher and higher above the world level."

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Group of local lawyers, organized to protect legal profession's interest in screen delineations, is latest about to beef on our "Mr. Smith." Reason: The crooked senator (Claude Rains) in the film was an attorney by trade, ergo and therefore, the legal profession is maligned.

If this comes to pass, the possibilities for future protest are unlimited.

Next logical step would be an outraged uproar from the girl stenos and sec-ties of the land, because Mr. Smith's office girl (Jean Arthur) was an out-and-out bribe-taker until she saw the light of love. This obviously makes all office helpers crooks and finaglers.

Then would come the senate page boys, who were deliberately shown wavering in their faith, and, of course, the governors, who should take action in their next meeting on the libel of Guy Kibbee's portrayal.

The reporters (typified by Thomas Mitchell as amiably tippling, good-hearted guys) are accustomed to their movie prototypes and shouldn't mind any more.

* * *

The press, and newspaper people, are being spotlighted again at the same studio wherein "Mr. Smith" was fabricated. One of the first realistic melodramas of the newspaper world, "The Front Page," is well along in its second screen telling.

Oddly at first glance, Rosalind Russell is in the role Pat O'Brien had in the first talkie of the Hecht-MacArthur play, and Ralph Bellamy is cast in the Mary Brian part. This mixing up of the dramatic gender is deliberate: the title is now "His Girl Friday," and Hildy (Miss Russell) is a nickname for Hildegarde, crack femme reporter. Cary Grant is that tough managing editor, Walter Burns (Adolphe Menjou, in the previous film), and he's in love with Hildy this time, so . . . you can see it's scarcely the same story any more, although it's the same general idea. . . .

Howard Hawks, the director, picked up a copy of "The Front Page" from his desk one day, began reading it again, and got the notion for his present turn-about experiment.

The production will mark a return to the frenzied fast-talk school of the earlier talkies, a school which sprang from this and similar plays. The talk will continue, as before, to the very end, which was, in stage play and screen, a line by the managing editor, bent on intercepting his escaping star reporter, to the effect that the soandso stole his watch.

* * *

Just how they'll tag the piece this time is a mystery, but the latest dope is that Hildy will have something to say about horses, which will be plenty applicable if they do it—and get by with it, which I doubt.

This was a tough problem in the first talkie, which wound up with the classic line.

The solution here was one of those minor accidents which keep picture-making fascinating. Menjou, rehearsing, was leaning against a typewriter and accidentally touched off the carriage, ringing the bell which "covered up" the objectionable words.

That's how they shot it, saving the day for freedom—more or less—of speech and the proprieties.

Young Girl Acting Like Snob

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The morning's mail brings a letter from a girl much perturbed over the fact that her white-collar fiance has taken to overalls.

It seems the young man was a bookkeeper. The firm which employed him, not doing very well, reduced his salary. The young man always had a turn for mechanics and he took up a gasoline station with automobile repair work on the side. And the girl suffers "horrible humiliation" when her friends see him in greasy overalls.

"I love Bob to distraction; still I'm uncertain whether I'd be doing wisely by marrying a man whose job causes me embarrassment."

Whether she'd be doing wisely for herself or not, she would not be doing wisely for Bob unless she becomes less of a snob and sees that he did the sensible thing in taking a job which is bringing him "twice the amount he made as a bookkeeper and is likely to prove very profitable."

The young lady is high hat. She would prefer to have a husband sweating over columns of figures at scant pay for the questionable prestige of keeping him in the white-collar class with the uncertainty of unemployment as well. In these days of strain and stress, she forgets that white collars gall necks.

Instead of rejoicing that her fiance is able to take up a business for which he has natural aptitude, which brings in more money and promises success in the future, she's worried for fear her friends may see him in greasy overalls, ministering to an ailing car.

It's the man rather than the job these days and not all of our successful headliners began with white-collar jobs. Henry Ford didn't have a college education, and whether he wore a white collar in the beginning of his career or not, I can't say. But the Wright brothers, working 'round their modest repair bicycle shop on a side street, didn't wear white collars. And they were the apostles of pioneer aviation.

I'm afraid you won't like my advice, my dear girl, which is to step down off your stilts and stop being a snob, or else leave that young man for some girl of the type which appreciates ambition, thrift and ingenuity.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"There's nothing in the world I'd like better to do," he said and Lillian grinned widely.

"I imagine you won't have to hunt around for a topic of conversation," she said significantly, and I felt myself trembling with an emotion not at all pleasureable as I realized that, in all probability, within the next few minutes I would hear from Dicky's lips the explanation of the "jam" in which he had been involved, and which had come so near to ending in tragedy.

"You'll probably find him smothered in words when you get back," I said to Lillian with a little laugh.

I saw the lips of the blindfolded woman twisted into a contemptuous sneer, and expected that Edith's face would wear the same expression. But a furtive glance at her from beneath my eyelids, a glance which she could not possibly detect, showed no mockery in her face, although she was looking at me intently. There was only suffering and—could I believe my eyes?—what seemed to be a look of compassion in her eyes.

I had no time to consider the conjecture, for Lillian was speaking, this time briskly.

"All right, Gus! We'll go now. And, Ede, no matter how surprised you are at anything, say or do nothing which will reveal any details of our whereabouts."

"I'll remember," she said, and kept her promise. Only a quick intake of her breath, inaudible to the blindfolded man and woman, betrayed her astonishment when Gus noiselessly unfastened the rug, rolled it back, and then, pressing a hidden spring, lifted the cleverly-camouflaged trapdoor, to reveal the flight of stairs beneath.

"Listen to me!" Lillian addressed the prisoners. "We're going downstairs now, and it will be easier for all concerned if you are carried down. Don't be frightened. You're not going to be hurt, even annoyed — if you're reasonable. Jack!" she addressed a stalwart guard in the background, "will you please carry the man downstairs? Harry will take the woman."

"Sure thing," the guard returned, "if I can tie his wrists together, and also his ankles."

"That's a good idea," Lillian approved. "And while you're about it, tie up the woman's wrists and ankles, too."

"Lil!" Harry expostulated, with a man's hatred of needing protection. "That isn't necessary."

"I know it isn't," she said placatingly, "as far as your prisoner getting away is concerned, any more than Jack needs the bonds for his. But if you think I'm taking a chance on having a perfectly good husband's face scratched by those red-tipped, pointed finger-nails, or his shins kicked by those high heels, you have another think coming. Hurry up, Jack!"

Be Practical, Beauty Seekers

By MME. QUI VIVE

From our seat in the grandstand, watching the girl parade go by, it occurs to us that some of the Amazons in the army fighting for pulchritude aren't as logical as they might be. Let's take 'em one by each, pick 'em apart find out why their beauty works aren't ticking.

There is the sallow-faced lady whose skin does not inspire enthusiastics hurrahs. If she would lug home fewer purchases from the baker's shop, she wouldn't have to spend so much money at the beauteries. A horrid yallery-greenery skin won't change through external treatments. Lave it with bleaches, baste it with creams and it stubbornly stays as it is. But put into your honorable stomach more fruit jucies and green vegetable and the complexion will do a turn about for the better.

Consider the plumpie who flings money like a drunken sailor when she goes stalking dry goods. Because of hip spread and wiggling flesh the best Paris model that ever took a boat ride to other shores won't look like much. Our advice to her is to cut out the shopping for three months, put her savings into a gym class ticket, get rid of the excess inches. It is worth while to strive to come down to normal proportions. She'll not only look better but she'll feel sprightly and elegant.

Another misguided beauty quester who should see the light is the lady of advanced years who refuses to believe that time has touched her with cruel fingers and who dyes her hair a jet black that brings every wrinkle to the fore. Her natural silvered locks would provide a flattering frame for the face that, unfortunately, has gone to seed. A sister in the bond is the faded blond who goes drug store in a big way and whose peroxided locks are the color of hay that is not new mown, but which has been kicking round the farm for a long, long time.

Even though the golden halo has tarnished to a rusty tone, it would be more becoming than the unnatural shade and rope-like texture that are the results of overbleaching.

* * *

To be practical in one's beautifying efforts is to stick to the good old laws of health, which include long hours of restful sleep, a divorce from the worry habit, which is as wearing as a nagging relative: nourishing food, fresh air, daily bathing and regular exercise.

You may think you can get by with the free and unlimitless use of makeup and curling pins, without paying heed to health, but in the long run you'll find that it cannot be done.

There is the matter of dress. If you are logical you won't wear a too dressy hat with a dress that isn't dressy enough. Nor will you toddle on the street in silly shoes that are fit only for parties. We see these slips all the time, and they are very discouraging to one who preaches charm and good looks.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, November 25.

While there are testimonies of powerful interests working for advancement and prosperity on this day, there also are adverse conditions to be coped with. There seem to be erratic or curious angles making for defeat, "upsetting the apple cart" with sudden, surprising and rather devastating force. Change in plans, progressive methods and tact or compromise with forces of opposition may be productive and profitable. Cultivate friends.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of major opportunity for expansion and growth, with elements of novelty, innovation, change and friendship in high places contributing to success and personal satisfaction. But tact, strategy and design are needed, since powerful factors of opposition must be placated.

A child born on this day may be endowed with out of the ordinary talent, also much audacity, originality and independence. It may have certain eccentricities and be restless and fond of change.

"The Authority on Authorities"

PICK THE RIGHT TIME

Ordinarily the declarer takes out the remaining hostile trumps as soon as he can catch them. Sometimes he must postpone that maneuver a bit, and in unusual spots he must refrain from taking them out at all, until they get used perforce at the close of the play. Plenty of hands depend upon the correct timing of this move, picking just the right stage for it.

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

Visitors to the National championships in Pittsburgh during the week of December 3 will find the home contingent hard to beat. Morgan Howard, head of the local committee in charge, reports a fine example of competitive bidding and play at the Chartiers Bridge club there on the deal shown. Some East-West pairs stopped at less than game, though it is easy in hearts, giving North-South opponents good scores. The best North-South result, however, came where they were set one trick doubled.

West bid 1-Heart, East 2-Hearts, West passed this, North doubled, South bid 3-Diamonds and West doubled. Two hearts were taken, then the club 2 brought the K and A. The diamond A and Q showed dummy holding a tenace over West. Now came the real skill. Letting trumps alone, South led the club 6 to the J. West also took the Q and led the heart K. A spade was shed from North, South ruffing. The spade 7 now called out West's A, and the heart 2 was returned, ruffed with South's last trump.

Here was the stage set for a pretty play. The established club 10 was led. If West ruffed, North could overruff, drop the other trump and cash the spade K. But West still had a club, followed, and the high spade K was discarded. Then the last spade was led toward the dummy's two high trumps, West being caught in the traffic jam.

TURKEY DAY EVENTS LEAD ENTERTAINMENT

Holiday Family Dinners Most Important Functions; Mansfielders Spend Thanksgiving Visiting In Nearby Cities.

TURKEY and all the trimmin's? You bet Mansfielders had it, and therefore everybody is still sighing, "Gee, it was good, but I'm so-o-o full." Family parties were in evidence everywhere in the city, and a number of folk were entertained in nearby cities. Word of a variety of pleasant affairs has come to the society department so we're still writing about what you, and you and you did yesterday.

Young Bill Ahrendt is home from Ohio State where he is a sophomore, and he brought his roommate, John Patton, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. along. John is quite a swimming star, they say, having won himself several medals in the southern state, and being a member of the O. S. U. team. The two boys are the guests of Mrs. B. R. Ahrendt, 79 Glenwood boulevard, Bill's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Keith and family, Lakewood, motored down to Mansfield to visit Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Rawson, Forest avenue, Thursday. You recall, no doubt, that Virginia Chew has been in the library school at Western Reserve in Cleveland since September? Well, good news! She's spending the holiday with her parents Att'y. and Mrs. Charles Chew, Highland avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. George Call, Tiffin, are holidaying with Mrs. Call's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Leight, Arlington avenue. You remember Mrs. Call as Virginia Leight. Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Evans, 530 West Townview circle, visited in North Canton yesterday and for the remainder of the week, while Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Houk and son, William, went to Dover for the week-end.

The R. E. Hartwell's and their daughter, Ruth avenue, ate their turkey at Upper Sandusky.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Eliot, 40 Bartley avenue, had several guests from out of town for Thanksgiving dinner and the week-end. They are Mr. Eliot's mother and brother, Mrs. H. J. Eliot and John Eliot, both of Delaware; and Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Tiel and daughter, Eleanor, and son, Roger, of Pittsburgh. Completing the list of dinner guests at the Eliot home were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Roth, of Mansfield.

Mrs. W. W. Stark, 365 Park avenue west, motored to Westerville to join her parents for Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Wainwright, 700 Park avenue west, entertained ten guests at dinner, including their son, Walter Wainwright, who come here from Charleston, West Va., his wife and children, Sally Ann and Betty Jean Wainwright, from Beaver, Pa., and Mrs. Walter Wainwright's mother, Mrs. Sarah Guth, of Allentown, Pa. The Wainwright's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil E. Ober, who reside in Roanoke, Va., are spending the week-end here.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hill, 240 Park avenue west, their son, Douglas, a students at Cornell university, spent the day at Dover as the guests of Mrs. Hill's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. James V. Will, 263 Rae avenue, were the guests of friends in Lafayette, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Chapman and son, Don, jr., 210 North Townview circle, visited relatives in Painesville.

Mrs. F. E. Tollis, 188 East Third street, entertained with a family dinner yesterday. The long dinner table was centered with fruit. Guests were Ernest Tollis and family, Toledo, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Tollis and family, Weller township; Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Marks, Adario, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Copland, Mr. and Mrs. Ovid Epps, Mansfield, and Howard Banks, Lucas.

It was a family party at the H. A. Baker home on Park avenue west road. In fact the Baker's have a regular reunion each Thanksgiving day. Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Baker entertained Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Baker (Mildred Boone) and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barker (Vera Baker) and children, Lucas, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Copper (Lois Baker) and children.

Mr. and Mrs. George Day, 105 South Main street, also had a family dinner party at their home yesterday. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pifer, Barberton; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Poe and family and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pifer, jr., and family, Kenmore; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Snyder and family, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bormuth and Mr. and Mrs. Birlington Owens.

From Bristol, Va., came Mr. and Mrs. George Zimmerman and daughter, Joann, to spend the long week-end as the guests of Mr. Zimmerman's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Zimmerman, 94 Altamont avenue. The Zimmermans were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Linn, 428 Shepard road, yesterday. Mrs. Linn and Mr. Zimmerman are cousins.

Out-of-town guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Kline, 290 East Fourth street, yesterday were Mrs. W. H. Eberhardt, Medina, and Mr. and Mrs. James Stevens and family, Cleveland. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dinger and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wharton, all of Mansfield, were also dinner guests, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Good and daughters, Ethel and Betty, Mifflin, called during the day.

Presents Program Before Guild of St. John Church

The program presented before members of the St. John's guild Wednesday was directed by Mrs. Sybilla Untiet. Rev. Paul H. Saleste led the devotions and talked on "What Does a Church Believe?" and "A Cause for Thanksgiving." Mrs. Mary Harbeson read the scriptures.

A piano number was given by Miss Katherine Schaller, after which a musical story was told by Beverly Joan Mertler. Members of the hostess committee were Mrs. Laura Klein, Mrs. Marguerite Kallmerten and Mrs. Lena Horchler.

Plans were made during the business meeting for a guild bazaar and dinner at the church Dec. 6, and the next meeting will be held Dec. 20. This will be a noon covered-dish dinner, and a Christmas exchange. Mrs. Mary Kreisher, Mrs. Mary Krumm, and Mrs. Mary Dickson are the hostesses, and Mrs. Florence Schaller will have charge of the program.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

NOW that the day of feasting is over, I'll wager that, like the rest of us, you're counting on nothing more tempting than turkey hash for dinner tonight. . . . And there's been much more excitement than just the turkey this holiday season—with all kinds of comings and goings for Thanksgiving dinner . . . a surprising number of weddings . . . collegians home for the recess . . . and some 200 folks going to Ann Arbor for the Ohio State-Michigan game tomorrow.

Barbara Kerr came down from Northwestern university (where she is a junior and member of Chi Omega sorority) to visit with her mother, Mrs. Thomas Kerr, until Sunday. . . . While here, one of the things Barbara enjoyed most was talking with her friends, also vacationing from their various college campuses. . . . Barbara Brunner was home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Brunner, and although she only had a day's vacation from Denison university (she's a freshman and Delta Gamma pledge there), she took time out to have an informal little party. . . . Another freshman, home for her first vacation, is Mary Virginia Turner, who's spending the recess with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Turner. . . . She's a student at Wooster college, you know.

In fact, it seems that lots of old friendships are being renewed these days. . . . David Boals come up from Ohio State university to entertain two of his former classmates and fraternity brothers from Washington and Lee university—David Gray of Daytona Beach, Fla., and Charles Eaton of New York City. . . . Incidentally, Dave has just been elected president of his fraternity, Pi Kappa Alpha, at State. . . . He and his sister, Jeanne (who's a freshman and Kappa Alpha Theta pledge at the university) are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. David Boals, now.

I CAN'T begin to name all the folks who are going to Ann Arbor for the Michigan-Ohio State game Saturday—but just think of anyone you choose, and you can be pretty sure he's going. . . . Joan Marquis and Patty Palmer went up today, and they'll be the guests of friends on the University of Michigan campus for the week-end festivities. . . . Mr. and Mrs. William Tawse are motoring up with their children, Mary Catherine and Bill—they'll go to the game and then spend the week-end in Jackson with friends. And a special car of football enthusiasts leaves tomorrow morning.

Apparently this was the week for a parade of new babies—so to speak. . . . Mr. and Mrs. William Terry are here with their young daughter, Marilee—for their first visit since moving to Grand Rapids, Mich., in early autumn. . . . Wappner, have gone to Wichita Falls, Tex., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beidle—and get their first glimpse of their new great-granddaughter and great-niece, Sandra Suzanne, who's just three months old. . . . You recall, no doubt, that Mr. Beidle is a former Mansfielder and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beidle. . . . Lots of folks came to town yesterday to have a look at Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kafer's young son, David, aged four months.—Mr. Kafer's mother and sister, Mrs. C. A. Kafer and Susan Kafer, from Lorain and his brother, George Kafer of Cleveland, Maxine Johnston, Mrs. William McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Trevor Thomas, all of Detroit, were among those present.

SHIRLEY JUNE CHILDS has found this week a pretty exciting one too—the Thanksgiving vacation afforded her the first visit home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vinton G. Childs, since she enrolled as a freshman at Ohio university in Athens last September. . . . And she's enthusiastic about her house guest too, because it's her cousin, Mary Kay Ryall, whom she hasn't seen in a long time. . . . Mary Kay's a student at the University of Illinois.

It's safe to say that Louise M. Reese is really busy these days—if not with one job, then certainly with another—she has that many of them. . . . At a joint meeting of the National Executive committee of the League of Young Democrats and the state executive committee in Dayton recently, Louise was elected secretary of the Ohio state convention to be held in Columbus on Jan. 27 and 28. . . . Then besides that, she's state secretary of the organization and has represented Ohio at the national convention of Young Democrats twice—at Indianapolis in 1937 and in Pittsburgh this year. She was a charter member of the Richland county group and served as secretary for two terms—and that's not all. Louise also served two terms as executive committee member representing the 17th congressional district in the state organization. . . . All of which sounds like a mighty big order for anyone!

New Convention Secretary

Mrs. Louise M. Reese, who was elected secretary of the Ohio State convention of the League of Young Democratic clubs of Ohio recently, is shown above. This convention will be held in Columbus on Jan. 27 and 28.

MISS HANSON BRIDE OF ROBERT MARTIN

TWO former residents returned to Mansfield to be married yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock before the altar of the Park Avenue Baptist church. They were Miss Bettie Hanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Hanson, 580 Russell road, who has been a secretary in the general offices of the Kroger Grocery and Baking company in Cincinnati for the past two years, and Robert A. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Martin, 182 West First street, who is football coach of the Bath township schools in Osborn.

The altar of the church, which was lighted by two seven-branched candelabra, was banked with palms and ferns. Nuptial organ music was played by Miss Louise Seybold, a friend of the bride's. Her selections included: "Andante Contabile" by Tschaikowsky, Cadman's "At Dawning," Schubert's "Ave Maria" and "Dreams" by McAnis. She also played a medlay of the bride's sorority song and the bridegroom's fraternity song. Miss Elizabeth Edgar, a sorority sister of the bride from Swanton, sang two solos before the ceremony, "Because" by D'Hardelot and Carrie Jacobs Bond's "I Love You Truly." Both Mendolssohn's and Lohengren's Wedding Marches were also played. Rev. Hayes M. Braker officiated at the service.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin velvate fashioned with full sleeves, sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice and full skirt, extending into a train. A fingertip veil of bridal illusion cascaded from a quaint little Mary Stuart bonnet, which matched the gown. The former Miss Hanson carried a bouquet of white pompons, gardenias and lilies-of-the-valley.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Frances Hanson, and her former college roommate and sorority sister, Mrs. John W. King of Cleveland. The attendants' gowns were made along the same lines with sweetheart necklines, flaring skirts with back fullness and bustle bows. Miss Hanson wore gold slipper satin, and Mrs. King was attired in chartreuse satin. Their Mary Stuart bonnets matched the gowns. The two young women carried round bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

Mr. Martin chose his brother, William Martin, to be his best man. Another brother, James Martin, and the bride's brother, Fred Hanson, were the ushers.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held for relatives and close friends of the couple at the Hanson home. The bridal table was decorated with pale yellow roses and a two-tiered wedding cake decorated in yellow and white.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin are now taking a southern motor trip, and after next week they will reside in Osborn. For traveling Mrs. Martin topped her black wool dress with a chubby skunk jacket and red accessories. Her shoulder corsage of gardenias was taken from the center of her bridal bouquet. Both Mr. and Mrs. Martin are graduates of Mansfield Senior high school and Miami university. She is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, and he belongs to Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

AUSTIN COREY TAKES CLEVELAND BRIDE

Miss Irene Watkins, Mansfielder Exchange Nuptial Vows at Epworth Euclid Church In Mid-Morning Ceremony.

OF INTEREST to Mansfielders is the wedding of Miss Irene Watkins and Austin Stanwood Corey, solemnized at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in the chapel of the Epworth Euclid church in Cleveland. The bride, a Cleveland resident, is the daughter of Mrs. Henry Bauhof of Canton. Mr. Corey, who made his home here before going to Cleveland, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip S. Corey, 808 Park avenue west. The Coreys were in Cleveland for the occasion.

The altar of the chapel was banked with bouquets of autumn shaded chrysanthemums, palms and ferns and lighted by tall tapers. Miss Alvina Wochele played the nuptial music, which included: "Ave Maria," by Schubert; "Reverie" by Faure; "Aria" by Lotti; "Love Song" by Hensell, and Lohengrin's Wedding March. Rev. J. M. Wolfe of Jewett, a life-long friend of the bride's family performed the service.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Dr. Arthur Watkins, wore a moss green costume suit with Kolinski trim for her wedding. Her accessories were brown, as were her shoulder orchids. She carried the rose-point handkerchief which Mr. Corey's grandmother, Mrs. Frank S. Corey carried for her wedding.

Miss Arlene Willamen of Canton was the bride's only attendant, and she was attired in a dusty rose ensemble with brown accessories and a rosebud shoulder corsage. Dr. Charles J. Brown, jr., a former Mansfielder who now resides in Ann Arbor, Mich., was Mr. Corey's best man.

Mrs. Bauhof appeared at her daughter's wedding wearing a costume in dahlia shades with a shoulder corsage of orchids. Mrs. Corey was dressed in pigeon blue with gray accessories, and she wore a gardenia corsage.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served to the bridal party and members of the couple's immediate families in a private dining room at Crosby's. The table was decorated with silver and white appointments.

Mr. and Mrs. Corey are now taking a short wedding trip, and after Jan. 1, they will reside at 3296 East 149th street in Cleveland. Mrs. Corey attended Ohio university and Ohio State university, and she is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. Mr. Corey is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and the University of Pennsylvania. He also attended Ohio university and is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. He is now affiliated with the Cleveland Trust company.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Berry and sons, Billy and Robert, of Great Neck, L. I., are the week-end guests of Mrs. Berry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Sowash, on West Fourth street.

Wedding Date Set For Kathryn Craig, Ernest Fuller, Jr.

Miss Kathryn Craig, bride-elect of Ernest Fuller, jr., was the guest of honor Wednesday evening at a nuptial shower, given by Mr. Fuller's mother, Mrs. E. C. Fuller, sr., and Mrs. Kermit Topper at the Fuller home, 157 Raleigh avenue.

There were 12 guests present for the party, and Mrs. Amelia McLaughlin was in charge of the entertainment. Bunco was the diversion with prizes going to Mrs. Norval Bowers and Miss Eileen Gimbel, who presented them to the honoree. The guests gave Miss Craig a shower of kitchen gifts, and she received an electrical gift from the hostesses.

A red and white color scheme predominated in the luncheon table decorations. A miniature bride and groom and red and white fall flowers formed the centerpiece with red and white tapers on either side.

Miss Craig and Mr. Fuller will be married in a quiet ceremony at St. Peter's Catholic church at 9:30 o'clock on Nov. 30. Miss Geraldine Berry of Mt. Vernon, who is Mr. Fuler's niece, and Robert Kensel will be the attendants. Miss Craig, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Craig, 424 Louise avenue, is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, and an employe in the photo department at the Kresge company. Mr. Fuller, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Fuller, sr., was graduated from St. Peter's high school and is now employed at Montgomery Ward and company.

Bellville Bullet Wins Scoring Crown.

The individual prep scoring crown was set firmly on the head of Howard (Tick) Hamilton of Bellville, who has 181 points. Millis Hume, Alliance quarterback, who retained a "miracle" chance to overtake Hamilton, tallied 18 points yesterday as Alliance whipped Salem, 44 to 0. Hume thereby ended the season with 150 points. All of the other schoolboy gridders with 100 points or bettter for the season have completed play.

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor.

PAUL SNYDER'S first year as coach of the Mansfield high school football forces has been completed, and the 31-year-old mentor deserves a pat on the back for a fine job.

Snyder's team did lose to Massillon, New Philadelphia and Canton McKinley, but his Tygers combine was not the only club to bow to these powerful machines.

The Tygers bowed to Massillon, 73 to 0, but this tanning was suffered in the second game of the season when Snyder was still experimenting with his lineup.

Mansfield developed rapidly after this humiliating defeat. The Quakers conquered the Tygers because they packed too much power, and the Bulldogs won over Snyder's men with a desperate last-minute pass that was accidentally tipped into the receiver's hands in the end zone.

The Tygers took their other foes into camp without the least bit of difficulty, and Cuyahoga Falls, beaten 20 to 6 in the post-season game yesterday, was the only team outside of those which defeated the Snydermen that was permitted to score.

* * *

Sophomore Material Promising for 1940.

SNYDER faces what appears to be a more difficult task next year as only Martin Henke and Bog Lantz of yesterday's starting lineup return, but a promising sophomore crop is expected to help eliminate some of his headaches.

Graduation and ineligibility will knock 20 Tygers from the squad, and leave only 18 players, with the majority inexperienced. Nine of the returning varsity members are juniors and nine are sophomores.

Added to these 18 are a number of other sophomores who were not given an opportunity to wear varsity toggery this year and a fine group of junior high school prospects sent up by Coach Bob De Haven.

Just how Snyder will fit his returning players into next year's lineup is not known, but Henke and Lantz are certain to form the nucleus for the backfield.

Other backs to be back are Sophomores Fred Crawford, Adam Brandt, Bill Doolittle and Jim Templeton and Juniors Earl Garnes and Ed Kinkel. Simpson junior will send up a couple of fine ball carriers in Bill Kinkel, a brother of Ed and Johnny, an ex-Tyger star, and Pete Nameth.

* * *

Tyger Line to Lack Veterans Next Year.

RETURNING wingmen will be Dave Prion, a junior, and Kenny Krupp and Bob Winbigler, sophomores. None has seen any great amount of action, but Snyder has been particularly pleased with Winbigler, a tall, rangy lad who is adept at grabbing passes.

Joe Horvath, a junior, brother of this year's captain, Mike, and Edward Arlin and Tony Kauffman are the tackles due to return. They have had few opportunities to strut their way wares.

The only guards on the list are George Murray and Earl Wendland, both juniors.

Paul Dietzel, a sophomore, and Bob Sipe are the leading candidates for Center Dick White's post.

142-Pound LeMunyon Stars In Post-Season Win

Scores on Runs Of 83, 80, and 22 Yards In Rout

Sub Halfback Also Adds Extra Points as Tygers Wallop Cuyahoga Falls, 20 to 6 In Mud.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

THREE lightning-like touchdown dashes by Substitute Jim (Red) LeMunyon pulled an outweighed Mansfield high eleven to a 20-6 triumph over a slow Cuyahoga Falls combine in a post-season game played for the benefit of Director J. Merton Holcombe's band on the slippery turf at Stadium field yesterday.

Only about 3,500 were in the stands as the fleet-footed LeMunyon slipped and slid on the treacherous gridiron, and, even if they were disappointed in the caliber of the opposition, they were not denied their thrills.

LeMunyon, who was used almost exclusively as a "spot" player this year, fashioned one of the finest one-man performances witnessed at the Tyger lair this year as he led his teammates to their seventh victory in 10 games in the season's finale.

Substituting for the injured Howard Hershey, who made only two brief appearances in the ball game, LeMunyon found the muddy grid softened by this week's rain no handicap.

* * *

In the first period, the red-thatched LeMunyon splashed 80 yards through the mire for the first Mansfield touchdown. Incidentally, it was the first running play pulled off by the Tygers.

* * *

LeMunyon side-stepped through tackle for 22 yards and the second touchdown in the second quarter, and he capped this brilliant performance with the final score a few minutes later when he stepped off 83 yards.

The swift LeMunyon also contributed two points after touchdowns to alone account for Mansfield's entire total. In accumulating 214 yards from scrimmage, LeMunyon gained all but 28 of the Tygers' total.

While the first downs favored the visiting Yellow Jackets, Mansfield was much the better ball club yesterday. Had a dry field prevailed, the Tygers would probably have triumphed by a larger margin.

Even with a soggy field, Mansfield's speed bewildered the Jackets.

After a spectacular first half in which all of the scoring was accomplished, the Tygers and Jacks settled down to a slow, listless game, Mansfield being content to protect its lead and Cuyahoga Falls finding it impossible to crack Coach Paul Snyder's line for any appreciable yardage.

A pair of fumbles and a pass interception provided the invaders with their only scoring opportunities, while Mansfield had two touchdowns called back in addition to those scored.

Cuyahoga Falls was offered a fine scoring chance in the second minute of play when LeMunyon fumbled on his 40 while running back the first punt of the game.

Failing to gain at the line, Ben Barber punted over the goal line to give Mansfield the ball on the 20.

* * *

On the first play, LeMunyon slipped through tackle, reversed his field beautifully and raced 80 yards for the first score. He then calmly booted the extra point to give Mansfield a lead that was never forfeited.

* * *

Shortly after the touchdown, a Mansfield back, who remains unidentified as his numerals were covered by mud, bobbled the slippery pigskin on his own 24 and Elmer Brown recovered it for the visitors.

It took Cuyahoga Falls 10 plays to push the ball into the end zone. Earl Loucks, jr., son of the visitors' coach, climaxing the short drive with a plunge from the two.

Loucks' attempted pass for the point was knocked to the ground by LeMunyon.

On the kickoff, LeMunyon took the ball on his 19 and, helped by some fine open field blocking, went all the way to the Jackets' 34 before he was brought to the turf by the safety man.

Had two Mansfield blockers not lost sight of the speeding figure as he dashed through a pile-up of visitors and knocked the safety man out of his path, LeMunyon would have scored easily.

Mansfield picked up only four yards on the first three downs, and then LeMunyon sprinted for a first down through tackle on the 22. LeMunyon then picked his way through the line, jerked his leg free from the only Jacket who touched him and scored standing up. He again added the point to run the Tygers' advantage to 14 to 6.

LeMunyon added the final touchdown in the fading minutes of the first half. After slipping on his own 17 after grabbing a punt, LeMunyon pushed through the right side of the line, again reversed his field after reaching the secondary and crossed the goal line untouched to climax a pretty 83-yard run.

Barber, fast-stepping Cuyahoga Falls back, followed LeMunyon into the end zone, but was never near enough to attempt a tackle.

LeMunyon, who tips the Toledo's at 145, was pulled out of the ball game at this point and Dick Weaver's try for the extra point was wide.

* * *

Just before the half ended, the Jackets, with the aid of a 15-yard penalty, drove down to the Mansfield 32, where the Tygers took the ball on downs as the half ended.

* * *

Midway in the third period, LeMunyon again was pushed into the open by some fine blocking and he raced 62 yards to gain touchdown territory for the fourth time, but this spectacular run was nullified by a 15-yard clipping penalty.

One of the most beautiful plays of the game followed LeMunyon's useless run when Dave Templeton, standing on his 20, tossed a 50-yard pass to Gene Miller, who was downed on the visitors' eight by the speedy Barber. It netted 61 yards.

LeMunyon took three cracks at the line and tossed a pass that was knocked down, and the Tygers were stopped where they started.

There was little to excite the fans in the final period outside of Hershey's 70-yard run into the end zone. It was also called back because of a "clipping" penalty.

This was not only the first time Hershey carried the ball, but one of the few occasions he handled the leather. The eel-hipped Hershey was used little due to the shoulder injury he received in the Shelby game.

The only time Cuyahoga Falls threatened in the second half was in the early minutes of the third period when John Gallagher, a sub, intercepted LeMunyon's pass on Mansfield's 40 and returned it to the 11.

* * *

But this was the nearest the Jackets advanced as the Tyger forwards pushed Barber for losses totaling 10 yards on three successive plays. LeMunyon ended the threat when he snagged a pass on his five and returned it to the 29.

* * *

Loucks and Barber were the outstanding offensive performers for the Yellow Jackets.

The defensive stars of the game for Mansfield were Templeton, Horvath, Goettl, Pfahler and White.

Columbus Boxers to Appear On Friendly House Program

Oppose Zacharias, Carbetta and Glover In Winter Fight Carnival Wednesday Night.

By CHARLES MARTIN

MANSFIELD fight fans will have an opportunity to see some of the outstanding amateur boxers from central Ohio and this district in action when the Friendly House presents its first winter fight card at the settlement Wednesday night.

Among the top-notch leather slingers who will exhibit their wares are Jake Zacharias, 157, Paul Carbetta, 116, and Beauford Glover, 136, from the Friendly House, Ernie McKinley, 126, hard-hitting Ashland youth, and Charles Hodges from Columbus. Hodges won the 1938 American Legion A. A. U. bantamweight championship at Columbus.

* * *

Zacharias, who is developing into one of the finest middleweight fighters in North Central Ohio, battles Micky McGuire, 159, of Columbus, in the feature bout. It will be a five-round affair.

* * *

Another bout which is expected to keep the spectators on the edge of their seats is the setto that tosses McKinley against Norbert Koble of Fremont. These two lads tangled in last year's indoor show and McKinley emerged with a close decision.

Glover, who suffered a side injury in training last week, is scheduled to meet Carl Hughes in a three-round bout. Whether Glover's side heals sufficiently to allow him to fight will be determined Saturday when he is examined by a physician.

Paul Carbetta, the settlement's classy 116-pounder, meets George Ferguson of Columbus in another three-round match. Dick Sauers, also of the Friendly House, tackles George Huess of Fremont.

* * *

The card will consist of eight bouts and is scheduled to get under way at 8:30 o'clock.

* * *

Mike Wentz, who with John Villella are the matchmakers for the show, announced today that only a limited number of seats are available for the card. Ducats for the affair are on sale at the Corner Lunch, Athletic Supply store, the City News, Hunt's News depot, Ritz Night club, and the Friendly House. Price of the tickets are as follows: First two rows, $1; next three rows, 75 cents with the balance of the seats going at 60 cents.

Friendly House League Plans for Opening Card.

The Friendly House Senior white basketball league will hold its final meeting before opening the season Dec. 7 at the settlement at 7:30 p. m. today. Mike Wentz, boys' physical director, said today managers of teams already entered and those expecting to enter clubs should attend the session. The list of teams to compete in the circuit will be completed at the meeting. It will be impossible for any team to enter after tonight, Wentz said. Eight quintets comprise the team roster at present.

Oregon Upset By Washington

60-Yard Drive in Last Period Wins for Seattle Team.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Washington upset Oregon in the most important football game of the first half of the nation's double Thanksgiving holiday.

* * *

A 60-yard drive before 20,000 in the last period gave the team from Seattle a 20-13 Pacific Coast Conference victory to highlight a day which would have offered other top-notch games but for the late change in date which forced revision of schedules.

* * *

In two other outstanding games Virginia Military Academy swept past Virginia Tech, 19-7, for the first time in 10 years, and Syracuse downed Maryland, 10-7, a field goal by Dan Murphy in the first quarter providing the winning margin.

FIGHT IN CLEVELAND.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Professional boxing returns to Cleveland tonight in a card topped by a 10-round non-title fight between Georgie Pace, new world's bantamweight champion, and Jimmy Webster, of Toronto.

PORTSMOUTH, WAITE WINS ASSURE COLUMBUS GAME

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The Toledo Waite-Portsmouth high Buckeye Bowl football classic Dec. 2 became a certainty today. Both teams cleared final hurdles yesterday with impressive victories, Waite swamping Toledo Scott 32-0 for its 11th city championship; and Portsmouth thumping Erie, Pa., East 25-6 for the Trojans' 25th straight game without defeat.

Waite, 1932 national scholastic champion and undefeated in 10 games this year, lost the services of its star halfback, Bob Hacklinger, for the post-season game. Hacklinger's collar bone was fractured yesterday.

BALDWIN-WALLACE BACK WINS OHIO SCORING TITLE

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— George Morris, elusive Baldwin-Wallace junior halfback, stowed away individual scoring laurels in Ohio college football today with an aggregate of 100 points for eight games.

The shifty B-W overtook and passed Hiram's Bob Bloom yesterday as he tallied three touchdowns and two extra points when Baldwin-Wallace romped through Ohio Wesleyan, 22 to 7. Bloom piled up 85 points in seven contests.

Hallabrin Gets Starting Berth

Mansfield Boy to Be at Fullback In Ann Arbor Saturday When Bucks Seek Clear Title Claim.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio State's rampaging Buckeyes entrain for Michigan today primed for a victory Saturday which would give them undisputed possession of a Big Ten football crown for the first time in 19 years.

Coach Francis Schmidt picked 36 players, groomed to stop Michigan's Tom Harmon and company, for the invasion. The clash between the traiditional rival schools was expected to attract some 15,000 followers from Ohio to Ann Arbor, Mich. The squad will remain tonight in Dearborn, Mich., leaving for Ann Arbor tomorrow morning.

* * *

The Bucks were in high spirits as they banged through the season's last home drill on a sloppy field yesterday before tackling Thanksgiving turkey dinners. More than two hours were devoted to polishing an offensive sprinkled with forward and lateral passes, pressaging a "shoot the works" attack.

* * *

Ohio State, undefeated in five Western conference starts and already assured a tie for the title, needs a victory for a clear championship in the event Iowa should defeat Northwestern. Should Ohio State lose and Iowa win, the two teams would share the conference laurels.

Receiving careful attention in practice were Don Scott, 214-pound quarterback from Canton, who has thrown six touchdown passes for the Bucks this season, and Esco Sarkkinen, hard charging end from Fairport, often on the receiving end of heaves.

Also slated for service were Frank Zadworney, blocking back who has recovered from recent injuries, and Sophomore Johnny Hallabrin of Mansfield, who substituted brilliantly for injured James Langhurst in the backfield against Illinois last week. Injuries have benched Langhurst.

* * *

Reports from the Michigan camp indicated that the Wolverines would trot out all their tricks to break loose Harmon, high-scoring back. Coach Fritz Crisler tentatively designated Fred Trosko to start at left halfback for Paul Kromer, who is injured, although Kromer was expected to see action.

* * *

Four Buckeye starting regulars and 10 others participated in traditional "senior tackles" at yesterday's practice. Trotting between lines of back-slapping teammates to "thrown" a brand new tackling dummy were: Capt. Steve Andrako, Vic Marino, Sarkkinen and Zadworney, all regulars, and Howard Wedebrook, John Rabb, Tom Welbaum, Stu Whitehead, Joe Madro, Campbell Graf, Jerry Spears, Ross Bartschy, Dick Wuellner and Amel Tucci.

Reserve, Carroll and Cincinnati Win Ohio's Top Holiday Games

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Western Reserve and Cincinnati pushed back their chairs from the Thanksgiving feast table today with satisfaction as they eyed the remnants of their two traditional football foes, Case and Miami.

Reserve's Red Cats tor apart Case, 18 to 0; and the Cincinnati Bearcats trampled Miami, 13 to 0, in Ohio's top holiday games.

* * *

In other tussles Baldwin-Wallace walloped Ohio Wesleyan 22 to 7; John Carroll beat Akron, 25 to 6; Toledo trounced Xavier, 20 to 0; and Wilberforce stopped West Virginia State, 16 to 7.

* * *

Mickey Sanzotta, Reserve halfback, dashed 18 and 53 yards for two of the Cats' touchdowns and Jim Riley plunged over for the third.

It was Reserve's 30th victory in the 47-game series. Case has won 12 times and five contests have ended in deadlocks.

Reserve outplayed the Rough Riders badly and used reserves during most of the late periods.

Malloy Dixon, substitute left halfback, and John Popov, right halfback, plunged for scores in the Cincinnati victory, the 17th for the Bearcats in the traditional series that opened in 1888. Miami has won 21 times.

Cincinnati scored in the second and fourth periods, meanwhile halting several threatening drives by the Redskins.

Carroll rang up its seventh victory of the year in downing the Zippers. The Blue Streaks, champions of Cleveland, rolled up 16 first downs to six for Akron and gained 211 yards to 97. Steve Polachek tallied two of the touchdowns. Tackle Mike Fernalla blocked a punt for the Zippers' only touchdown.

Halfback George Morris scored three touchdowns and kicked two extra points in Baldwin-Wallace's triumph. The Bishops were outclassed, gaining only 27 yards by rushing to 282 for the Jackets and getting only nine first downs against 19 for the Clevelanders.

Bob Heisler's 11-yard pass to Jack Patterson brought the Wesleyan touchdown

* * *

Brilliant passing by Bob Slovak sparked Toledo to its easy victory. Quarterback Snider bagged two touchdowns and Captain Francis Maher scored once. Snider dashed 47 yards for one six-pointer on a pass from Slovak and set up another with a 53-yard run.

* * *

Wilberforce scored two touchdowns in the second period to win the traditional game between the two colored schools at Xenia. Schnedly, Wilberforce tackle, booted his fifth field goal of the season.

The state's only game tomorrow will find Wittenberg playing at Oberlin. Alfred Holbrook will travel to Upsala, Heidelberg to Bethany, and Muskingum to Hofstra.

Ernie Breaks Camp, Leaves Home Plate For Warmer Region

By HENRY McLEMORE

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—Ernie Lombardi finally has gotten up. He no longer is stretched across home plate at Crosley field.

With winter setting in, and the first snows here, the big catcher of the Cincinnati Reds has broken camp and moved in a warmer base.

Lombardi, you will recall, suddenly grew tired of life in the tenth inning of the final game of the World series early this month, and withdrew from it. Without a word of warning to his teammates or to the New York Yankees, he set up light-housekeeping at home plate, hung out a "please don't disturb" sign, and hibernated like the bear of a catcher he isn't.

* * * *

Days passed and no word was heard from him. The fans went home. The Yankees went home. The sportswriters went home. Crosley fields was draped in crepe and locked for the winter.

* * *

But Lombardi was not forgotten. Persons all over the country began inquiring as to his whereabouts. Was he still at home plate? Had he left there for somewhere else? Was he protected against winter's blasts? Had Powel Crosley, president of the Reds, sent him blankets and a sleeping bag? Was there a Saint Bernard dog in attendance? Was he hurt?

At this point this reporter entered the mystery. Despite the fact that I have won so many Pulitzer prize cups that I now use them for cereal bowls at breakfast, I did a bit of high class reporting. To settle the question of "where is Lombardi?" I stopped off in this city and started sleuthing.

Soon after entering town I stopped a man in the street and asked him if he knew Lombardi. He said, who? I said, Lombardi, you know the catcher. He said the only catcher he knew was Dickey.

So I stopped another man, a passer-by. At the very mention of the Reds he pulled his overcoat collar high about his ears, put on a false mustache, and ducked into a cul-de-sac. So it went. No one in Cincinnati wanted to talk about the Reds. Mention them and the citizens quickly switched to the best cure for sore ears in hunting dogs, the eventual height of women's skirts, and how much did Hitler really fear Stalin.

So strictly on my own, I made my way to Crosley Field. Only a few weeks ago it was packed with thousands of excited persons. Now it was dark as the inside of a black bear, and deserted as the last rat on a sinking ship. I undid my flashlight, slipped on my sneakers, and crawled carefully toward home plate.

* * *

Nearing it, I cried "Ernie Lombardi! It's a friend." There was no answer.

* * *

I turned my torch squarely on the place where the Reds catcher had staked out his claim, and it was bare. Bare of Lombardi, that is. Signs that he had lived there for days still existed. There was a small kerosene stove. Scraps of bread were scattered halfway to the pitcher's box. A note in a milk bottle read "see you next season—maybe." Torn and illegible pages of a diary were scattered about the plate. Piecing these together as best I could I made out something like this — "DiMaggio — lawdy — home runs — we're giving out — what's the use — I'm sleepy — Dickey — Keller — help — next year — Keller — Dickey — Ruffing — Gordon — Gordon — lawdy — I'm tired . . ."

I wrapped up the scraps of paper and mailed them to Ford Frick.

HURL BRICKS IN CHRYSLER TIFF

Two Policemen Hurt, Others Injured as 100 Seek to Go Back to Work.

(By Associated Press)

DETROIT—Two policemen were hurt and a number of other persons suffered black eyes and minor injuries in a melee at the Chrysler corporation's main Dodge plant today as approximately 100 men sought entrance to the building.

The officers, neither of whom was seriously hurt, were hit with bricks that were tossed freely. Police broke up the fighting promptly and took several men into custody for questioning.

Police estimated 600 UAW-CIO pickets were on duty when the men tried to enter the plant. Approximately 85 gained admittance, they said.

It was the first incident of violence at the Dodge plant, scene of the original "slow-down" dispute between the CIO United Automobile Workers and the corporation, with the exception of individual fist fights at the picket lines, since the dispute began eight weeks ago.

Union leaders charged that the men seeking to break through the picket line, most of whom were colored foundry workers, attempted to use knives during the skirmish. Two colored men required hospital treatment.

A corporation spokesman said 57 workers entered the plant. A union representative said 35 gained admittance.

LUCAS—With the purchase of bleachers which will be erected on the stage, the basketball seating capacity of the new Lucas high school gymnasium will be increased to over 500, according to Supt. V. Leland Gilliland, giving the local school one of the largest seating capacities in the county.

Geraldine Au, Loretta Beasore and Maurice Callahan, recently elected cheer leaders by a vote of Lucas students, have begun the training of a cheering section for the opening of the Richland county cage season.

Victors last week over Hayesville in an inter-county game, the Lucas players are being whipped into shape for their league opener against the Lexington "Minute Men" here on Dec. 1.

Capra Directed It.

No less important than the stars who play in it is the director of "Mr. Smith Goes To Washington," for he has turned out some of the best pictures of the industry. Frank Capra was responsible for "It Happened One Night," "Lost Horizon," "Mr. Deeds Goes To Town" and "You Can't Take It With You." He has turned out another sensation in his latest picture, which is booked for the Ohio tomorrow. In "Mr. Smith Goes To Washington," Capra takes a normal, ordinary young citizen and takes him into the political lion's den of Washington where he turns out to be another Daniel. James Stewart is the young senator from the mid-west; Jean Arthur is his cynical, political-wise secretary. Edward Arnold and Claude Rains are political crooks and Guy Kibbee is the governor.

Leslie Howard Film.

"Intermezzo," a love story, brings Leslie Howard and a new screen personality, Swedish Ingrid Gerhman, to the Madison screen tomorrow. This is Miss Bergman's first American picture. The drama revolves around two people who meet and fall in love, forgetting the home ties of both, and forsaking everything for their love. Howard is a great violinist who falls in love with his accompanist. Edna Best, English actress and estranged wife of Herbert Marshall, plays the role of the wife. Comedy for the Madison menu is provided by Joe Penner in "The Day the Bookies Wept."

Comedy and Western.

"Night Work" is another one of the pictures about the Fitches, the gang that made its screen debut in "Boy Trouble," with Mary Boland and Charles Ruggles as the heads of the Fitch family. This family picture is featured with "Border Phantom" at the Ritz today and Saturday. Bob Steele, western hero, rides and fights for a girl who is accused of murdering her uncle, a college professor who is found dead in an abandoned hacienda after an exploration trip across the desert.

"Fighting Gringo."

George O'Brien turns knight of the desert in his latest western action film, "The Fighting Gringo," which is being shown at the Majestic. "Gringo" was the Spaniard's name for Americans when California was under the rule of Spain. O'Brien is a picturesque leader of a band of desert vagabonds and he and his men come to the rescue of a Spanish senorita and her father at El Rio Rancho. "Torpedoed" is the second feature at the Majestic.

Romance at The Park.

The Park is showing, for its last-of-the-week bill, a combination of romance and human interest. For romance there is "History Is Made at Night" in which Charles Boyer, flutterer of feminine pulses, is co-starred with Jean Arthur. And for human interest there is "The Five Little Peppers and How They Grew." The film version of Margaret Sidney's childhood classic was made with Edith Fellows in the role of Polly, the girl who mothered her four little brothers and sisters while the mother worked to support them all.

MILD SUPPORT PUSHES SELECT SHARES HIGHER

Dividends, Earnings Reports Serve to Prop Individual Stock Issues.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Selected stocks displayed faint rallying signs in today's market, but many issues were at a standstill.

Accorded mild support were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Kennecott, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Sperry, Du Pont, Cluett Peabody, and American Radiator.

Backward were General Motors, Chrysler, International Harvester, Air Reduction, Union Carbide, North American and Texas Corp.

Dividends and earnings statements served to prop individual issues and lightness of selling elsewhere was viewed as encouraging by market analysts. Business news, generally, was on the side of recovery contingents. European war developments again were exciting marketwise.

Bonds and commodities were narrow and quiet.

Financial quarters were heartened by week-end merchandising reviews which reported retail purchasing activity, helped by favorite weather and Thanksgiving day preparations, reached a new high for the year.

Dunn & Bradstreet estimated the spending volume for the country as a whole topped the same week last year by 8 to 13 per cent.

While clearances of fall goods were advertised by merchants in some cities, the survey said, many stores showed a disposition to defer special sales until a later date than usual because of strong inventory positions.

DEATH PREVENTS HOLIDAY TRIP

Mrs. Jennie Smith, Shelby, Stricken On Thanksgiving Day.

SHELBY—Mrs. Jennie May Smith, 82, widow of George Smith, died unexpectedly at the family home, 48 North Gamble street, yesterday following a heart attack. She was preparing to go to Mansfield to spend the holiday with her son, Damon Smith.

Mrs. Smith was born May 8, 1857 near here and had spent her entire life in this city.

She is survived by her son, Damon; two daughters, Mrs. French Crowe, Marion, and Miss Gladys Smith at home; a sister, Mrs. H. E. Bell, of Shelby; and eight grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at First Methodist church, with Rev. Arthur Staples officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

GANGES—A pageant, "The Perfect Gift," will be staged at 8 p. m. Sunday at the Ganges Reformed church as a feature of the annual church Thank Offering service. The service is sponsored by the Women's Missionary society.

RED CROSS NEAR HALFWAY MARK IN ANNUAL DRIVE

Only 6 Days to Go, Chapter Confident It Will Reach Goal of 10,000.

With only six working days to go and still under the half-way mark in the annual Roll Call, officials of the Richland County Red Cross were still confident today that the goal of 10,000 members would be topped by Nov. 30.

When the Roll Call office opened this morning, 4,812 old and new members had enrolled, according to L. W. Birch, general chairman of the membership drive. This figure, he explained, did not include Shelby where the drive is considerably ahead of last year, nor any of the county except for scattered reports.

While most of the Mansfield precincts have been covered, few of them have been completed and a number of industries are still to report, he said. The Roll Call opened Nov. 11.

Two hundred and sixty-three Mansfield concerns and offices have enrolled 100 per cent, Birch said. The latest list reported includes the following:

Richland Printing company, J. M. Cousins, Inc., Mansfield Tent and Awning company, En-Vo Engineering Products company, General Finance company, Wilging's meat market, Black & Mansfield law office, Haring meat market, Mutual Benefit Life Insurance company, Albert Perez studio, Ohio State Life Insurance company office, Dr. R. R. Black's office.

Dr. Wadsworth's office, Dr. D. D. Deeds' office, Dr. W. W. Peirce's office, Dr. H. B. Peck's office, Dr. L. A. Hautzenroeder's office, Dr. H. C. Winbigler's office, Dr. R. H. Frey's office; Dr. G. L. Evans's office, Marriott & Lutz law office, Rogers and company, R. F. Cox company, Inc., Superintendent W. L. Miller's office.

Taylor Beauty shop, Mansfield Photo Engraving company, Mansfield Savings Trust National bank, Charles Hoffman company, Mechanics Building and Loan company, Richland Insurance company, Hursh drug store, the Stag, Hart Oil company, G. L. Rogers, Komito Clothing store, County Relief office, DePue grocery store, Max Diner.

Dr. D. A. Weir's office, Dr. C. R. Hein's office, Dr. M. S. Reed's office, Dr. S. C. Schiller's office, Dr. D. W. Peppard's office.

CHANCE OF LIFETIME

LAWRENCE, Mass. — (U.P.) — A visitor at Lawrence high school was surprised to see a pupil stand up and shout at his teacher, "There's the door! Get out!" The teacher, Miss Marian Chine, was not pleased. She said, "Try it again, Murphy, you'll never get another chance outside of this public speaking class."

GAINING AGAIN

Sales Collections $746 Ahead of Same Week Last Year.

A gain of $746 was chalked up in Richland county sales tax receipts for the second week of November over the corresponding week last year. State Treasurer, Don H. Ebright, reported today.

Collections for the week were $10,038 as against $9,292 last year. Richland county was one of the 49 counties in the state which showed an increase.

Richland county receipts to Nov. 11 amounted to $429,394, a gain of $80,957 over the first 10 and a half months of 1938, the report showed.

Receipts for the entire state were $5,204,000 ahead of last year. For the second week of this month, the Ohio receipts were up about $100,000 over the corresponding week of 1939.

STATE PAYS UP SEWER RENTAL

City Receives $1,976 Check For Reformatory Charges.

The city had received a check today for $1,976 from the state for payment of sewer rental charges at the Ohio State reformatory for the first half of this year.

Fred E. Lingafelter, secretary of the water, sewer and garbage departments said the payment reduced the delinquent balance to $1,257, the lowest figure since the sewer rental charges were put into effect nearly three years ago.

Payment by the state was the third to be made under the terms of a new contract which was entered into in July 1938, and which is figured on a population basis rather than on the water consumption as it previously had been computed.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1939.

In efforts to soak the rich it is difficult to avoid submerging the poor.

Judge Florence Allen is being mentioned for the Supreme Court vacancy—as usual.

Uniformity of divorce laws in all states is again being urged—it being rather inconvenient for some folks to go to Reno.

As to Labor's Internal Feud

THE SUGGESTION recently offered by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the public should place responsibility for labor's internal feud "where it belongs," is asking more than seems likely to be accomplished.

The issues involved in the controversy between the A. F. of L. and the CIO have not been clearly understood by the public, which has become inclined to feel that there has been mishandling of the whole matter and that the public in general, and the nation as a whole, have been made to suffer as a result of internal friction in the ranks of organized labor.

The public, for many years, has been sympathetic with the legitimate efforts of organized labor to improve working conditions, gain relief from excessively long hours and secure adequate pay based on value of service performed.

Progress along these lines has already been much greater in the United States than in any other country in the world, with indications of further improvement as national prosperity advances.

Employer-employe relationships have also undergone vast changes within the past few decades, but even the occasional sporadic disturbances, such as that which have hampered automobile production in Detroit this fall, evidence continued lack of understanding of the mutuality of interests of management and wage earners.

If there is in the labor movement, and in its leadership, the intelligence, honesty and good intentions with which it has been credited in the past, the task of composing its own internal differences and proceeding along lines which would reclaim public approval, should not be too difficult to accomplish within a reasonable length of time.

But as to the suggestion of Mr. Green, it seems unlikely that the public will feel equal to assuming such responsibilty.

Less Juvenile Delinquency

A PROBATION OFFICER with more than 30 years' experience talks reassuringly about young people. "Children today have more latitude and freedom than ever," he says. "Yet, in spite of increased population and city growth, we have less juvenile delinquency than we have had in many years." He thinks the improvement comes about because "children are wiser, less apt to be duped."

The old mottoes and sermons on virtue and respectability don't seem to interest the young people. They are not so impressed as their grandparents were by the Ten Commandments. But when they are shown that juvenile deviltry is mostly a losing game, that when they indulge in vice or crime they are hurting themselves more than anybody else, they are usually intelligent enough to prefer decency and common sense.

It isn't altogether self-interest, either, there is a pretty good strain of decency in most people, and the boys and girls doubtless get a good deal of personal satisfaction in decency for its own sake.

What Motorists Want

ELEVEN THOUSAND visitors at the National Automobile Show in New York had opinions about automobile problems and expressed them with emphasis and clarity. Here is what they think, according to a poll taken on automatic voting machines.

They want the money collected from motorists, in the form of gasoline taxes and registration fees, spent on the roads.

They want pedestrians compelled to obey stop-and-go signs as they do themselves.

The most important thing of all, they say, is better driving practices.

After better driving, they want better parking facilities down town and divided highways outside of town.

Annoyances on the road are reckoned in the following order of importance. First comes the "road hog" who drives slowly in the middle of the road, holding up and endangering traffic. Then come the "careless pedestrian" and the "cutter-in." The "back seat driver" comes a long way after; apparently that traditional pest has either been overestimated or has learned patience and resignation.

Recalling Year's Big Events

WHAT are the ten biggest news stories of 1939? Newspaper readers may find it hard to recall ten, or to be sure what happened in 1938 and what in 1939.

The final gobbling up of Czechoslovakia, the signing of the pact between Germany and Russia, the conquest of Poland and the declaration of war on Germany by Great Britain and France, are four major developments which come to mind easily. But what of Spain? That tragic civil was is ended now, but how many people can say off-hand whether it ended in 1938 or 1939? And when was the disastrous earthquake in Chile?

It has become a custom of the year-end roundup by newspapers and news services to select ten outstanding happenings of the year and bring them to the attention of readers, but there is no assurance that these selections will be the verdict of posterity. It is possible that some currently obscure event, some scientific discovery or some decision made during the year will prove of more lasting influence than events now recognized.

Curbing Souvenir Habit

HOTEL and restaurant proprietors are seeking means to protect themselves against souvenir-snatchers. One method is to use such bulky linens that guests with taking ways can't conceal anything easily and so give up the idea.

Another is to put attractive advertising matter on the linens so that they will advertise the hotel or restaurant to everyone who sees them and so make up for the financial loss of their theft.

A few popular restaurants provide such interesting favors and souvenirs that guests don't think of taking others.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Strange as it may seem, the latest peace maneuvers by Holland's queen and Belgium's king are traced by many diplomatic minds straight back to the decision of the American congress to repeal the arms embargo.

Here's the way they figure it out:

The repeal of the embargo eventually will put at the disposal of the Franco-British Allies the arms output of American industry, including airplanes.

Some experts in the industrial and military fields suggest that American production can supply one-fourth of the Allied military equipment if the war continues for more than a year. That means the odds against German success in a long-term war are heavily increased by the new American neutrality law.

Of course, other factors besides the American arms embargo have given Hitler time—and cause—to delay getting into action. But the embargo under the neutrality act has been an important one. The lifting of the embargo under the new neutrality act now makes delay more and more costly.

With repeal, therefore, every day's delay in a final conclusion of the war favors the Allies. It gives the British more time to train and develop their infantry forces

It gives the French more time to buy more American planes. That will cut down Germany's advantage in the air. With close to 14,000 first line planes, the Germans now have a probable air superiority of 1½ to one.

Further entering the picture is the evident willingness—until now—of the Germans to give the western front a "breathing spell" in the wake of Hitler's strong peace offensive last month.

* * *

Law Changes Everything.

WILHELMINA and Leopold must look upon that breathing spell as a German maneuver to demonstrate their earnest desire for peace—a demonstration, as it were, of good faith, with nothing up the sleeve.

But now, with the neutrality law a fact, and great reservoirs of supply ready over here for the Allies, that demonstration is no longer of any value to the German high command. It must act in the future against the background of the neutrality law, knowing full well the advantage that act gives to the Allies in a long term war.

Therefore, the Dutch and Belgian monarchs cannot see in the new neutrality law a definite spur to the German high command to act soon—while they still have plenty of supplies at home untouched by the British blockade, plus a modicum of military advantage in the air and on the ground.

Knowing the cold, calculating desperation that has motivated the German high command in previous wars, the Dutch and the Belgians cannot but see in their own countries the logical battlefields of today—just as they always have been the logical battlefields when England was involved in a European war.

* * *

Natural Battlegrounds.

AIX-LA-CHAPELLE (now Aachen) looms large in the history books. Belgium was the scene of the final military drama of Napoleon's career.

Belgium and Holland are the wedges between European powers and the British forces. They are natural battlegrounds because they have no high-ground barriers to invasion.

Before hostilities officially began, these neutrals once before offered their good offices for peace. They did what they could in the interests of humanity.

Now, most diplomats feel they are acting solely in desperation to protect their own people—which, after all, is their first concern.

It's in Belgium's Flanders field that the poppies grow—and in Belgium where the graves of thousands upon thousands of peace-loving Belgians bear witness to the ironic geographical fate that has made Belgium and Holland the scene of Europe's decisive battles through the centuries.

It is also ironic that a nation 3,000 miles across the Atlantic should make a decision which brings tiny Belgium and Holland back into the limelight as apostles of peace—for their own security.

"Never Take From Any Man His Song."

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I STARTED to send a ruthless answer to her letter the other day. Exasperating creature—how she has pestered us all with her desire to be a writer! But she can't be a writer! She hasn't a particle of talent! And she never would stand the drilling if she were given a chance. Yet, year after year, she keeps making her futile attempts—sending them around—asking for criticism.

Well, I wouldn't stand it any more. Why should she waste my precious time with her tiresome yammering? I'd tell her the truth—that's what I'd do! Tell her to forget all about her writing, and settle down to her housework like a sensible woman, and cook and sew.

Paper in the typewriter, irritated fingers on the keys, I began to type. Then suddenly—as plainly as though his dear scarred hands were laid on mine, as clearly as though his kindly voice spoke above the clatter of the machine—something stopped me. Something called. And across the years and the darkness, I heard my father saying, once again:

"DO NOT TAKE FROM ANY MAN HIS SONG."

How puzzled I had been when he first said that to me. What had caused it? Some ten-year-old foolishness. We'd been laughing at the old man next door—the old man with the long white hair and strangely young eyes, who still thought he was fighting Indians, though he hadn't seen a Sioux for half a century. Giggling—jumping up and down—pointing with childish squeals of derision at the queer old muzzle-loader he carried—until, suddenly the old man's face had seemed to crumble. The light had gone from his eyes. He stood there, looking vaguely around bewildered.

It was then my father, coming upon us, had put his hand on my shoulder—given me that long, deep look of his—said those strange words:

"Do not take from any man his song."

What did he mean? The words had no meaning for my brain, yet somehow, in my heart, they made sense.

"DO NOT TAKE FROM ANY MAN HIS SONG."

Was I taking the song away from the old man with the young eyes; taking from him the one thing that put music in his heart and fire in his blood? Was that why his face had crumbled so, in sudden loss and fear?

Suddenly I saw—felt the thing my father was feeling—caught, through his tired eyes, a glimpse of the beauty and tragedy and immortal wonder of life.

And now once more—across from the long trail—he had reached out; stopped me.

"DO NOT TAKE FROM ANY MAN HIS SONG."

Yes, that was what I had been about to do. She had so little in life to sustain her—that drab, childless, shabby little woman. There had always been so little! Poverty, hard work, the poor leavings from more colorful lives. Not even courage or wit enough in her own nature to fire her days. Only one dream to sustain her—the dream of being a writer.

No talent. No training. No chance of success. What did all that matter? THAT DREAM WAS HER SONG!

That dream kept pride alive in her—and hope—and wonder—and delight. That dream kept her living!

What does it matter how we are kept living as long as we live? A ridiculous ambition. But in the eyes of God, all our ambitions must be ridiculous: Only life, itself, matters—the hungry reaching of the soul toward greater growth.

"NEVER TAKE FROM A MAN HIS SONG."

I had been about to take her song from her. How many times had I taken their own bit of song away from shabby, timid souls? How often had I broken their music by the clamor of my ridicule, my impatience, my disdain?

The paper was crumpled on my machine. The little clattering, cruel keys were lost in a blur of tears. Across the distance I saw his dear face fade—heard his voice fail.

But if only my heart could remember—always!

Health And Diet

Answering Your Health Problems.

—By DR. CLENDENING

What drugs are recommended to be placed in the family medicine cabinet?

Dr. Reginald Fitz tells us in a little book called "Health at 50," issued by the Harvard University Press, that the hospitals no longer use saline purgatives, castor oil or strong cathartic pills in large quantities because there have been too many cases of ruptured appendix from their use. For an occasional or regular purgative, mineral oil is recommended.

Aspirin tablets are usually included because they have a variety of uses for headache, muscle pains, colds and even for insomnia. A powder combination of sodium bicarbonate and magnesium oxide is of proved value in overcoming attacks of indigestion due to hyperacidity of the stomach. A sedative in the form of luminal or sodium barbiturate is quite useful. Under most circumstances it is safe for occasional insomnia or nervousness.

An antiseptic, either 70 per cent alcohol or tincture of iodine, or both, a package of sterile gauze and adhesive tape bandage and a roller bandage are essentials. Certain ointments are included for minor burns. Nose drops and paregoric are optional.

Because it is so common, some remedy for athlete's foot should be included.

* * *

Has any attempt been made to prevent the common cold by using the virus vaccine?

The usual vaccines against the common cold are the organisms that are found somewhat late in the course of the infection. These certainly do little, if any, good.

In 1914 Kruse advanced the theory that colds are due not to any of the bacteria that we can see, but to a filterable virus. He produced colds in healthy volunteers with filtered nasal secretions from cold-ridden persons.

Since the work of Dochez was reported in 1938, it has been generally agreed that the filterable virus is the cause. Dochez hoped to be able to create an active immunity in man with the cold virus but up to now there has been little success attending the efforts. If the virus is given by hypodermic, it is safe but produces very little immunity. If it is given locally in the nose, it may cause a cold rather than cure one, so we are about where we were before they discovered the virus origin of colds.

* * *

What was the powder you recommended once for the prevention of athlete's foot?

This powder consists of salicylic acid, 5 grams; menthol, 2 grams; camphor, 8 grams; boric acid, 50 grams, and starch, 35 grams. Either for an active case or as a follow-up treatment to prevent recurrence, or as a preventive after using the gymnasium, or when the feet have been perspiring, it may be dusted on the skin of the feet, in the socks and shoes. It should not be used oftener than three days running. It will stick to the skin and at the same time not cause grease spots on the clothes, etc.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Son Jimmy Roosevelt is again getting very much in the hair of his father and high administration officials.

Naturally, they are not saying so publicly, but Jimmy has been meddling in New Deal affairs in California which have no relation whatsoever to the movie business. Specifically, Jimmy seems interested in certain tax evasion suits and the cases against the Giannini, leading West Coast bankers.

His undercover activities in the Giannini affairs have been remarkable. They began last month during his mother's visit to California.

At that time a high Washington official was in California for the express purpose of co-ordinating government operations against the Giannini. Despite that, Jimmy took his mother to a luncheon with the bankers. The incident was widely publicized on the coast, and caused officials in Washington to see red. But that, apparently, didn't bother Jimmy.

For a few days later he asked the visiting Washington official to confer with Giannini lawyers on possible terms for a settlement of the government's cases.

After some reluctance the official talked to the Giannini attorneys, but made it clear he had no power to reach an agreement. He told them he would listen to what they had to say and report their offer to his superiors. Beyond that he would not go. So again, the irrepressible Jimmy got busy.

The Gianninis next entrained for Washington and the inside word was that they had assurances of a personal conference with Jimmy's father. But they never got to see him.

Very angry, the president not only gave orders that the bankers were not to be admitted, but he directed the justice department and SEC to proceed full steam with their prosecution.

The Gianninis talked to justice, treasury and SEC officials, but that's as far as they got. When a Wall Street reporter construed a statement from Attorney General Murphy to imply that a settlement was being considered, the SEC promptly issued a sharp denial.

NOTE — Government agencies have received confidential reports that Jimmy's Hollywood salary actually is not being paid alone by Sam Goldwin, his widely advertised boss, but by a group of movie moguls who are at odds with the government.

Garner's Cigar.

JACK GARNER has received many odd presents in his long public career, including a five-foot gavel, but he was a bit startled when Representative Claude V. Parsons of Illinois handed him a cigar one foot long and four inches thick.

Parsons presented the giant smoke just before the vice president departed for Uvalde, and suggested he use it in his "front porch" campaign for the presidency. Garner smilingly ducked this hint, but accepted the gift cordially.

"This is mighty nice of you, Claude," he said. "She sure is a whopper, but if she turns out to be too big for me to handle, I know just what to do with her. I've got an Indian hunting guide down home who's always after my snipes. This will be windful for him."

NOTE — Garner was romancing a bit when he said he had an Indian hunting guide. None of his intimates has ever heard of him. His hunting crony for many years has been Ross Brumfield, Uvalde garage owner.

Huey's Strong Box.

THE justice department's sensational clean-up of Louisiana has dropped out of he headlines, but an interesting investigation is going on behind the scenes.

It is a probe into what became of $62,00 which was supposed to have been paid Huey Long just before he was assassinated.

This money allegedly was placed in a strong box, for the late Kingfish. But when Mrs. Long opened up the box after her husband's death, the $62,000 was not there. Federal agents are now trying to find who got that money.

The $62,000 was a dividend on the "Win Or Lose Oil company." This was a closely held corporation controlled by Huey's closest friends. Thirty-one shares were held by Jimmy Noe, former governor. Seymour Weiss held 24 shares; the late Governor O. K. Allen had 12 shares; Earl Christenberry. Huey's secretary, one share; and Alice Lee Grosjean, Huey's secretary of state, one share. Finally, 31 shares were held in blank for Huey himself.

The "Win or Lose Oil company" is a highly profitable concern, and in 1935 its dividends were $2,000 per share. So Huey's profit was $62,000. Apparently, however, he never got that money.

What the government is now trying to ascertain is who did get the money and why he didn't pay income tax on it. The justice department plans to prosecute the recipient under the income tax laws.

Roosevelt Library.

DURING the cornerstone laying of the new Roosevelt archives library at Hyde Park the other day, a neighbor of the Roosevelts came up to the First Lady and said:

"Oh, when will the library be finished? I am so anxious to come over and use it."

"I wish you'd tell that to Franklin," shot back Mrs. Roosevelt, laughing, "he's the one responsible for putting this library in our front yard."

Bryan's Brother.

CHARLES W. BRYAN of Lincoln, Nebraska, 72-year-old brother of the late William Jennings Bryan and veteran of innumerable political battles, tells friends he is thinking of trying a comeback next year by running either for governor or for congress. If he enters the lists, this will be the third or fourth comeback of his long career.

Bryan has been a candidate for practically every office from councilman to vice president. In 1924 he was the running-mate of John W. Davis on the Democratic ticket swamped by Calvin Collidge. He has been mayor of Lincoln twice, Governor of Nebraska three times and ran unsuccessfully for the senate in 1934. The present governor, Roy Cochran, was Bryan's state highway engineer and ran for the office with his blessing.

Cochran has announced he will go after the seat of Senator Ed Burke, anti-New Deal Democrat.

Now--and Then

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I TOOK my boy of nine to a city aeroplane terminal. An announcer called out the arrival of the planes and their moment of departure for distant cities, east, west, north and south. We saw them land, like mammoth birds, and run some distance, on a level stretch, with propellers whirling rapidly.

"They seem to come out of nowhere, Daddy, and they go up into the air and disappear, like ghosts. Great crowds of people travel on them, and aren't afraid. But if something would happen—the engine stop, or a wing fly off—those pretty girls in uniforms would get killed too." And he was worried.

Long streams of late model automobiles came and went from the landing field. Operators in small offices directed traffic in the sky, guiding the planes safely to their landing places.

"When I was a boy of your age," I told him, "there were no aeroplanes or wireless, no automobiles or radios. Not even gasoline. I never saw a railroad locomotive until I was much older than you are now."

"Why, didn't they have railroads then?" he asked.

"Oh, yes. The nearest station was three miles away. My father took me along sometimes when he hauled wheat or corn or lumber but I somehow always got there too late or too early to see a train. I was eleven when we moved near a larger town, and I rode 16 miles for my first train ride. When the conductor called our station I was afraid the train would not stop long enough to let us off. I ran down the aisle full speed and almost knocked the trainman off the step. After that I was often one of a crowd of boys and girls who gathered along the board walk beside our rural depot to watch the evening train come in. It was the exciting moment of the entire day. I liked to hear the whistle, then the reverberating roar through the deep valley, and see the steaming, smoking engine with a baggage car and two coaches on behind."

"You didn't know you'd be telling me about that, did you Daddy? I wonder what I'll tell my little boy?"

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:

FABIENNE SEYMORE, rich, young and beautiful.

NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.

YESTERDAY: More out of curiosity than anything else, Fabienne goes to Willoughby house with Nicky.

CHAPTER FOUR

"THIS IS the room where we hold our evening reading classes for men," or "This is our nursery. Working mothers, you know, leave their children here during the day. The children are in the dormitories now having their morning nap period. I'll take you there." Ellen Chapman chatted animatedly in that soft, sweet voice of hers and led the way in and out of rooms that were sparsely but cleanly furnished.

"Not the children's dormitories, please," Fabienne said firmly. For more than half an hour she had been listening to statistics, accomplishments, programs and plans, and she had had enough.

Strangely, she felt that this slim, small girl who was director of this organization had grown in stature. Actually, for half an hour, Fabienne had not even considered that the girl's dress was of a kind that she wouldn't even have given her maid. Fabienne had been interested in those foreign statistics. And she didn't like it. That was going too far. The presumption of this other girl to assume that she, Fabienne Willoughby Seymour, who had been rightful heir to the very walls that obviously belonged to "our people" would be glad to know what her great grandfather's money was doing! Whereas if she had inherited it herself—

"And now," Miss Chapman was saying as they stood at the closed door of a small room on the first floor, I shall show you our memorial to Mr. Willoughby's mother."

Opening the door, she said, "It's rather dark in here. All the better, because I want you to see the proper lighting effect."

* * *

She touched a wall light and a soft, golden glow spread out from beneath the lamp above a life-size oil portrait that hung at one side of the room.

Fabienne looked at it with mild interest, recognizing the talent of the painter rather than the subject. Then she became aware that she had once before seen the same grave face that looked down upon her in a kindly way. And the brooch that pinned a soft fischu across the throat in the portrait—it could be no other than the one Gertrude had had set into a clip for Fabienne's twenty-first birthday.

"So this is my great-great grandmother?" she found herself saying. "I once saw this photograph. I didn't know there was an oil of her."

"It was copied from the photograph," Miss Chapman told her. "Rather good, don't you think? It was done by Rafelli."

"Rafelli, the portrait man who had the show a month ago?" Fabienne asked, unbelievingly. The great Rafelli!

* * *

Ellen held the door open for Fabienne to pass through. She nodded an answer to Fabienne's question and explained, "He was one of our boys only ten years ago. In fact, he learned to paint, at first, in one of our classes. That was before my time, but we've lots of other talent in our boys and girls and I hope that some of them will grow up to be great, too," she said with modest pride, as if she were the mother of those boys and girls.

"I'm sure they will," Fabienne said politely.

"We've taken children here from the lowest kinds of backgrounds and had them turn out the best. It's work that's interesting."

"Yes, isn't it?" murmured Fabienne. "Tell me what you know about . . . her." She turned back to look at the photograph and noticed for the first time the wild flowers, rather sad litle bouquets that had been placed as tribute on the table before it.

"Mr. Willoughby told us about her. Only the things you must already know. That she nursed the sick, gave drink to the thirsty, fed the hungry and gave hope to men without number. And when her son built this beautiful mansion for her, she made is a harbor all her life for the homeless."

Fabienne had never heard that. But wasn't the de Ligne home a harbor most of the time? Weren't her mother's drawing rooms always filled with people who came for food and drink. The idea amused her.

She looked at her watch. "I must go," she said. "Thank you so much for showing me around."

She held out her hand. The other girl took it warmly.

"Will you come again?" she said.

"To visit?"

"To visit if that's what you wish."

"And what do you wish?"

"You can guess my wish. I'd like to have you come and work with us. A portion of your time would be useful to us. We have paid and volunteer workers, but we haven't enough of either. We have about four hundred people who come to us, Miss Seymour, for teaching, for all the pleasure they have. Some of them depend on us for their clothes, for their work; their whole future depends on what we equip them with—equipment to meet the problems you and I would never have to meet."

Nicky feigned sleep to the urchins who had gathered around his car.

"What funds do you have to run this place on?"

"We have a small appropriation from the city. The rest we have to raise ourselves."

Whoa, girl, Fabienne thought. She'll get me if I'm not careful.

Once more she held out her hand. "Goodby," she said. "Perhaps I'll come again."

Nicky feigned sleep and utter oblivion to the urchins who had gathered around his car and were inspecting it with the avid interest of a swarm of ants.

"Scram," Fabienne said amiably. "Come on, Nicky. Take me uptown and buy me lunch and a cocktail."

"All over? Painful?

"No," she said thoughtfully. "Rather interesting, as a matter of fact. I found out I had an ancestress who really amounted to something."

"You ought to be psycho-analyzed, Fab," he told her later. "You've got 'amounting to something' on your mind. And where does it get you?"

"I don't know." She jabbed her fork into her minced chicken and toyed with it. "But there must be something back of it. So many really sensible people go in for it. Sometimes I wonder if they don't get more of a kick out of life than we do."

"All right, I'll play." Nicky lighted a cigaret. "I'll point out things and you give me the answers. Did you have a good breakfast this morning? A nice bath? Put on expensive, pretty clothes? Have you not enjoyed a pleasant ride in a fairly comfortable car, the warmth of the sunshine? Yes or no?"

"Yes, to all of them. Also, if you're getting at whether I appreciate all those things, the answer is still yes. But—"

"No buts, please. Take this Chapman gal down at the Settlement house. I'll bet she had a breakfast that would make you shiver, no time for a cigaret, no leisurely drive down town under the sunshine. The dirty, ill-smelling subway for her. She probably had to bathe in tepid water and get up when she longed for sleep. Look what she spends the day doing. The kind of people she has to associate with. Do you think for one minute that she gets more out of life than you do?"

"Yes," she said at once. She was thinking of something of pride in Ellen's voice, of serenity and contentment that emanted from her.

"Okay, you win. But if she does, she's got something you haven't got.'

She broke in on him, "Nicky, what'll you bet I couldn't do something useful, give Gertrude the jitters and perhaps get a new thrill by working for . . . say three months . . . for good old charity?"

"A new golf club to my little mare Betsy," he said promptly.

"Settled," she told him seriously.

That afternoon she took a subway for the first time in her life. She got out at Sheridan square and called a cab. "Take me to Willoughby house on Henderson street. And you'd better make it snappy," she told the driver. She was beginning to think she might change her mind.

Park Site Goes On Auction Block For Back Taxes

Thirty-one vacant lots in Lincoln Heights, given to Madison township several years ago for a public park that never materialized, will be offered at sheriff's sale Saturday morning on a $2,352 tax foreclosure judgment.

Also scheduled for sale at the same time is a lot in the village of Butler, owned by Angeline Hissong and others. Delinquent taxes on it amount to $126. The lot was not appraised.

The county stands to collect only a small part of its judgment on the Lincoln Heights properties since they are valued at only $350, less than one-seventh of the amount of taxes due.

The judgment covering delinquent taxes on the Lincoln Heights land is against the Madison township trustees. The parcels will go on the auction block at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow at the courthouse.

Murder Victim Identified as Witness In Lepke Case

FINGERPRINTS LINK MAN TO N. Y. RACKETS

Hollywood Slaying Victim Was Under Indictment, Dewey's Office Says.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK — "George Harry Schachter," Hollywood murder victim, was disclosed by police today to have been a fugitive under a conspiracy indictment obtained by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey and a potential witness against Louis "Lepke" Buchalter.

Buchalter, alleged king-pin of the New York rackets, is scheduled to go on trial in federal court on Monday on narcotics charges.

New York police files unmasked Schachter as Harry Gottesman, aliar Greenberg, with a long record as a burglar. He was deported to Russia on Nov. 17, 1935. How he returned to this country is a mystery.

Every effort, it was said, had been made to maintain secrecy concerning Gottesman's importance in the Lepke case. The police disclosure of his identity came with some reluctance.

Indicted in Racket.

Silence of District Attorney Dewey's office led to the assumption that Gottesman, if he had been caught, could have been brought back to New York and used either in the federal or state cases against Lepke. Dewey has obtained a garment industry racketeering indictment against Lepke.

Early this year Dewey publicly took cognizance of a wave of underworld assassinations by declaring a "war of extermination" was in progress against potential witnesses against Lepke and Jacob "Gurrah" Shapiro. The latter is now in prison.

"Schachter's" identity was established when Los Angeles police wired his fingerprints classification to New York. His record showed that, as Harry Gottesman, he had been turned over to federal immigration authorities on October 6, 1932, for violation of the immigration laws. He is a Russian citizen and was deported to Poland on the S. S. Pilsudski, then sent to Russia.

Police said his re-entery into this country must have occurred several years ago since he was employed as chauffeur by a Hollywood movie executive for the past year and a half.

Children's Theater Launches Winter Season Tomorrow

Members of the Children's theater and Junior Workshop present their first play indoors at 10 a. m tomorrow when they stage "The Little Princess" at the Senior High school auditorium.

The Children's theater which was organized last summer, gave a number of performances outdoors during the summer. Tomorrow's production launches their winter season.

The famous Frances Hodgson Burnett story, which was recently filmed with Shirley Temple as the Little Princess, will be presented in three scenes. The costumes are from Mansfield attics and trunks, and several of them are costumes of Mansfield's early citizens. The work of securing costumes and making them over was done by a committee comprised of Mrs. Estes Thompson, Mrs. Louis Meisse and Mrs. Irving Clark.

Bettie Gibson will be seen in the role of Sara, the Little Princess whose fortune runs from princess to scullery maid, and Jean Nicola will play the villianous Miss Minchin. Ann Carol Thompson will be Becky, the other scullery maid. Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael will be played by Edward Maxwell and Sara Ann Hodgson.

Other members of the cast are Marilyn Joyce Teeter, Sigrid Meisse, Susan Belle Biddle, Julia Colby, Katherine Beatty, Doris Alverson, Jane Manz, Shirley Bowers, Erma Jenkins, Judy McLean, Huntington Brown, George Rideout, Billy Gandert, John Colby, Robert Beatty, George Porterfield, Robert Oliver, Peggy Cole and John Bishop.

Harold McCuen, director of the Children's Theater, is being assisted by Josephine Hughes. Robert Tawse is stage manager; Pearl Rube is in charge of properties and make-up will be done by Mrs. Jack Berno. Ruth Smith and Miriam Jenkins.

SERVE DINNERS

Mansfield's "forgotten men" enjoyed a Thanksgiving dinner yesterday as guests of the Volunteers of America.

More than 150 meals were served at the Volunteers hall, North Main street, according to Rev. R. T. White, superintendent. The dinner was made possible by gifts and contributions from Mansfield citizens.

At the Christ Gospel mission, 226 North Diamond street, J. B. Maxwell, superintendent, reported he and his co-workers served a Thanksgiving chicken dinner to 44 person, 23 children and 21 adults.

KUHN'S 'ANGEL' ON STAND TODAY

Blond Mrs. Camp Says Bund Leader Urged Her to Get Divorce, Gave Her Ring.

returned only $600 of the $717 moving bill and not all of it, as the defendant had testified. She also identified a $240 ring which Kuhn had denied giving to her. Mrs. Camp said the bund leader placed it on her finger in August, 1938.

Mrs. Camp vigorously denied testimony given earlier by Kuhn's associates that she was a "bund sympathizer."

"I knew nothing about it," she said.

Defense Attorney Peter L. F. Sabbatino took the witness under cross-examination.

She told Sabbatino that she had visited Camp Nordland, operated by the bund, with Kuhn in May, 1938, and that she had visited other bund camps. Kuhn once took her to the "German House" in Los Angeles, she said.

Defense Attorney Peter L. F Sabbatino's announcement that his case was concluded came as a surprise after general sessions Judge James G. Wallace had recalled the 42-year-old "bundsfuehrer" to the stand to "answer a few questions I have on my mind."

The judge's question was brief. He asked Kuhn, accused by the state of misappropriating bund money, whether the organization in 1937 had adopted a resolution permitting the leader to sign checks.

Kuhn replied in the affirmative and said the resolution gave him full authority to write checks on the bund's account. He then left the stand and Sabbatino announced, "the defense rests."

Sabbatino had been expected to call several minor witnesses, including bund accountants, in an effort to get the testimony back on a statistical plane after a Thanksgiving recess during which the jurors had a full day in which to mull over the contents of passionate love letters sent by Kuhn to Mrs. Florence Camp, blond Hollywood divorcee.

Wallace had indicated that he, too, would try from now on to keep the trial's love interest at a minimum. Assistant District Attorney Herman J. McCarthy had injected the love element Wednesday by presenting a packet of love letters from the leader to his "golden angel," Mrs. Camp.

Under Sabbatino's further questioning, Mrs. Camp said that she had $500 to $600 with her when she went to Reno and that Kuhn had given her $250 of it to go toward moving her furniture to New York later.

She had an "independent income" which made it unnecessary for her to work. Mrs. Camp testified, but denied she ever had given $2,000 to a bund member in Los Angeles, as Sabbatino's question hinted.

Mrs. Camp said she met Arthur Robertson, a member of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's staff, socially in Miami, Fla., and went swimming and dining with him. She knew him over a period of eight weeks, she said, but it was six days after they met before she learned of his connection with Dewey.

Sabbatino demanded to know whether she associated with Assistant District Attorney Herman J. McCarthy socially and General Sessions Judge James G. Wallace snapped:

"What difference does that make? This trial isn't being held to gratify your curiosity."

The defense attorney insisted, however, and Mrs. Camp said she did not "go out" with McCarthy socially but drove him places in her automobile, with Robertson along.

McCarthy visited Miami a second time in September, staying "several days," Mrs. Camp said. On his first visit she gave him a letter from Kuhn and after she came to New York in October turned over "all the letters I had," she said.

Mrs. Camp said the state was paying her living expenses but denied Sabbatino's suggestion that she also was receiving "pocket money."

COUNTY AWAITS REPORT ON COST OF CROSSING JOB

Reply to Latest State Offer on Project Will Hinge on Engineer's Estimate.

County commissioners today awaited an engineer's report from the state highway department on specifications and cost of the proposed grade elimination project on route 30-N before replying to the state's latest proposal for financing the job.

C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of commissioners, said the county and city would attempt to agree on joint financing of a part of the project as soon as the state submits definite specifications and a cost estimate.

"We want to know what we are paying for before we pledge ourselves to go along on the project," Mitchell said. "We have never had an accurate estimate of the cost and we don't know how long and wide the improvement will be or what kind of materials will be used."

Engineers from the state highway department have completed a survey of the job and figures are being compiled in Columbus by the state's bridge department, Murray D. Shaffer, Ashland division state highway engineer, said today.

Sets Up 3-Year Plan.

The state recently set up a three-year financing plan for the county, adding a year to the former time limit which the county turned down.

The commissioners had offered to contribute $50,000 to the project on a five-year payment basis. The state first gave the county two years to pay and then made it three.

Commissioners proposed that the city pay as much as the county toward financing the work, but the city so far has given no answer to the proposal.

Mitchell pointed out that estimates of the grade elimination cost have ranged from $450,000 to $500,000 and that the county first was asked to contribute $125,000 and the state later was satisfied with a $50,000 offer.

The project would include construction of an over-head grade elimination at the B. and O. tracks just west of the city and a subway at the Erie tracks a mile to the west.

2,000 GARBAGE BILLS STILL DUE

Office to be Open Until 4 P. M. Tomorrow For Payment.

More than 2,000 garbage accounts are still unpaid for the first quarter of 1940 with bills due tomorrow, Fred E. Lingafelter, secretary of the water, sewer and garbage department, said today.

This is 50 per cent of the total number of customers. The bills are for service during December, January and February.

Because of the Thanksgiving holiday yesterday, the office of the garbage department in the city building will be open until 4 p. m. tomorrow instead of closing at noon.

RABID OHIO AND WOLVERINE FANS TO TAKE SAME SPECIAL TO GAME

"Beat Michigan!"

That will be the slogan of the pro-Ohio State band of 88 Mansfield football fans who will board a special Erie railroad car at the Mulberry street station at 8:05 a. m. tomorrow for Ann Arbor, Mich. and the Bucks' annual game with the University of Michigan.

While it will be predominantly an Ohio State crowd, Michigan will also be represented on the "special."

Heading the smaller Michigan delegation will be J. G. Blahnik, who played side by side with the great Benny Oosterbaan in three years of football at the Ann Arbor school. Blahnik is now manager of the Montgomery Ward store here.

Herbert R. Slough, a former Ohio State gridder, is included among the Ohio partisans. Although a native of Pennsylvania, William J. Locke, mayor-elect, also will whoop it up for the Bucks.

Mansfield's attention in the Wolverines' big bowl tomorrow will be focused on 194-pound Johnny Hallabrin, Mansfield's lone representative on this year's Ohio eleven.

Hallabrin is slated to start at fullback in place of Jim Langhurst of Willard who will be kept on the sidelines by an injury.

The Mansfield "special," which will be connected to the Akron football train, will be routed through Marion, then to Toledo on the Chesapeake and Ohio line and from Toledo to Ann Arbor on the Ann Arbor tracks.

The train will be sidetracked near the stadium and will leave on the return trip shortly after the game, according to Dr. Harry Knox, president of the Ohio State Alumni association here who arranged for the special car.

CRESTLINE—Conrad Vaughn, 7-year-old son of Arthur Vaughn of Newton street was admitted to Emergency hospital Thursday for treatment.

BRITAIN SEEKS TO STEM HUGE LOSSES AT SEA

Naval Experts Explore Means to Combat Magnetic Mines Dropped by Airplanes.

It added that "according to a British admiralty announcement one more British destroyer struck a mine and sank."

(The British admiralty had announced Wednesday night the "beaching" of the destroyer Gipsy by a mine.)

The New York Times said Wednesday that a German submarine had slipped into the Firth of Forth and had attacked the Belfast, a 10-000 ton cruiser of the Edinburgh class. It gave private advices received in New York as its authority.

* * *

LONDON—(INS)—British naval circles today ignored German claims that the 10,000 ton British cruiser Belfast was torpedoed and damaged in the Firth of Forth.

Sees Torpedo, Steers Ship to Sub, Bombs It.

PARIS—(INS)—Tracked down by her own torpedo, a German submarine was sunk by the French armed hydrographic vessel Admiral Mouchez, an official navy communique revealed today.

Captain Saulnier, commender of the Mouchez, steered his vessel out of the path of the torpedo and followed the track of its wake until he come over the point from which it was discharged.

Several depth charges were dropped, after which, Captain Saulnier reported, heavy air bubbles and a wide-spreading area of fuel oil gave indication that the U-boat was destroyed.

Dutch Steamer's Crew Tells How Ship Sank.

LONDON—(U.P.)—Five survivors of the crew of 31 men aboard the Dutch steamer Sliedrecht told today how a German U-boat sank their 5,133-ton ship in the Atlantic ocean, leaving them in an open boat for a week on wintry seas.

Twenty-six other members of the crew were in another life boat, the survivors said, and were last seen in darkness at the scene of the sinking.

Fashioning a sail out of two overcoats, the five survivors managed to fight off cold and hunger for a week as they steered to land where they were rescued by a trawler and landed at a British port.

The U-boat halted the vessel in the Atlantic and later sank it, the survivors said.

"After examining the papers the U-boat captain said he would have to sink the ship and he gave us half an hour to abandon her," Peter Bron, one of the survivors said.

"We told the U-boat captain that we were a neutral ship bound for a neutral port but he still said he would have to sink us.

"He warned us that if we sent out distress signals when we returned to our ship he would sink us without warning. Shortly afterwards the submarine sank the Sliedrecht and then submerged."

FARMER JAILED

Lexington Man Begins Serving Out $75 Traffic Fine.

Clem E. Fry, 52-year-old Lexington farmer, was taken to the county jail today to serve out a $75 fine imposed in municipal court this morning when he pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Unless he pays the fine and costs, Fry will "sit it out" for 54 days, court attaches said. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch also revoked his driving rights for one year.

Fry was arrested Wednesday on U. S. route 42, south of Mansfield by state highway patrolmen who testified he was driving in the center of the highway.

Earl Sweval, jr., 18, Cline avenue, arrested by state highway patrolmen last night after an accident on route 39 north of Mansfield, pleaded innocent to charges of careless and reckless driving. Judge Kalbfleisch deferred sentence pending an estimate of the damage to the other car, owned by James Shealy.

HIS AFTER-DINNER CIGARETTE COSTS 3 TIMES AS MUCH AS the gas to cook his meal!
The relaxation of an after-dinner cigarette is a luxury so reasonable in cost that it can be enjoyed even in families of low income. At standard prices a cigarette costs only three-quarters of one cent. Not much, is it?
Yet, natural gas that performed the more necessary task of cooking the meal cost only a third as much! Even at the national average rate of 75 cents per 1000 cubic feet for natural gas, you can cook a meal for a quarter cent per person.
Poverty of the masses in China causes its government to issue coins in fractions of a cent, but Americans, who are used to higher standards of living and wages, refer to pennies as pin money. But even pin money becomes important in buying gas service. When you receive your next gas bill, analyze it from the number of times gas served you in its different uses. Then you'll appreciate gas for the bargain it is, and agree — your gas cent is well spent.

Vendol Wins More Victories Here in Mansfield Every Day

"I Can Never Praise It Enough," Says Mrs. Sampsel. Sour Indigestion, Cramps, and Other Troubles Due to Constipation Relieved.

Scores of your friends and neighbors right here in Mansfield, happy and grateful for sufferings relieved, are flocking to Central Drug Store to get Vendol, and many report what it has already done for them.

They tell how this justly famous medicine has relieved them of long-standing cases of acid, nervous indigestion; gas; bloating; pains and cramps; quivering nerves that get them out of bed several times every night; aching pains across the back and down through the legs; and other troubles due to constipation or need of diuretic to the kidneys. For instance, Mrs. Charles Sampsel, living on Trimble Road, Mansfield, says of this great Root, Herb, and Alkaline medicine—

"After suffering for years from constipation, Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets gave the most satisfying relief from this trouble; then the miserable acid condition in my stomach was relieved; whereas before it looked as though everything I ate turned my stomach so sour it made me sick. Often the gas was so terrible I could hardly breathe. My nerves kept me awake and I felt bad most all the time.

THE VENDOL MAN
At Central Drug Store

"But all that is changed, and now I eat without a fear of trouble later on; my sleep is restful without being up once during the night. I feel so much better in every way that I can't praise it enough, and advise everyone to try it."

Start on Vendol today, and see how quickly you too begin to feel better. See the Vendol Man at Central Drug Store, Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., and he will tell you all about this remarkable medicine and what it can do for you. Leading druggists everywhere sell and recommend it.—Adv.
